FOREWORD

The Inventory of County Archives of Illinois is one of a number of bibliographies of historical materials prepared throughout the United States by workers on The Historical Records Survey of the Works Progress Administration. The publication herewith presented, an inventory of the archives of Jackson County, is number 39 of the Illinois series.

The Historical Records Survey was undertaken in the winter of 1935-36 for the purpose of providing useful employment to needy unemployed historians, lawyers, teachers, and research and clerical workers. In carrying out this objective, the project was organized to compile inventories of historical materials, particularly the unpublished government documents and records which are basic in the administration of local government, and which provide invaluable data for students of political, economic, and social history. The archival guide herewith presented is intended to meet the requirements of day-to-day administration by the officials of the county, and also the needs of lawyers, business men and other citizens who require facts from the public records for the proper conduct of their affairs. The volume is so designed that it can be used by the historian in his research in unprinted sources in the same way he used the library card catalog for printed sources.

The inventories produced by The Historical Records Survey attempt to do more than give merely a list of records - they attempt further to sketch in the historical background of the county or other unit of government, and to describe precisely and in detail the organization and functions of the government agencies whose records they list. The county, town, and other local inventories for the entire country will, when completed, constitute an encyclopedia of local government as well as a bibliography of local archives.

The successful conclusion of the work of The Historical Records Survey, even in a single county, would not be possible without the support of public officials, historical and legal specialists, and many other groups in the community. Their cooperation is gratefully acknowledged.

The Survey was organized and has been directed by Luther H. Evans, and operates as a nation-wide project in the Division of Women's and Professional Projects, of which Florence Kerr, Assistant Administrator, is in charge.

PREFACE

The Historical Records Survey was initiated as a nation-wide undertaking in January 1936, as part of the Federal Writers' Project of the Works Progress Administration. In Illinois the Survey became an independent unit in August 1936, but continued to operate as a part of the nation-wide project under the technical supervision of Dr. Luther H. Evans, National Director, and under the administrative supervision of the Division of Women's and Professional Projects.

In compiling this Inventory of the Archives of Jackson County, the Survey has sought to locate, describe, and classify all extant county records and to make them more easily accessible to county officials, the general public, and research workers. It is believed that this Inventory will be useful in the preservation of this valuable material, and as a guide to the archives wherein may be found so much important information in the field of history, sociology, political science, and economics. While some historians have realized this for many years, the general public has never been made aware of the intrinsic worth of this material. In the official documents of Jackson County is continued the story of the coming into the wilderness of settlers who created a territory and the rudiments of a simple frontier government, bought and sold land, built roads, established schools, and later founded a state.

The Historical Records Survey has proved itself of valuable assistance to local and county governments in Illinois. Records have been rearranged and made more accessible, material believed to be lost has been located, indexing projects have been fostered, and county officials have been encouraged and induced to provide new equipment for their offices and better storage space for the records.

In addition, the program of the Survey has been planned to dovetail with the long range plans of the State of Illinois for the care of its state and local archives. For example, the first step in the Illinois program, the moving of all state records into a new Archives Building, has been materially aided by the preparation of preliminary inventories by Survey workers for the various state departments. Again, the program of the State for the preservation of county records, including the making of microphotographic copies of all important historical documents, obviously presupposes inventories such as The Historical Records Survey is now making.

Since under Illinois law no records may be destroyed without specific enabling legislation, the tremendous increase in the bulk of records being produced today makes it impossible for either the State or the counties to preserve all records. Hence, there has been considerable destruction of records. The Inventories being compiled by The Historical Records Survey now make possible for the first time a scientific study of the whole question of record destruction. If, as seems likely, this results in adequate and sensible legislation permitting necessary reduction in the bulk of records, this single use of the inventories may prove the most important contribution of the Survey.

Under the direction of Alston G. Field, who resigned as State Director November 1, 1937, work on the survey of records in Jackson County, the thirty-ninth county on the alphabetically arranged list of the one hundred and two counties in Illinois, was begun in April 1936, and finished in February 1937. A complete re-check was later made and finished in October 1938. The Inventory was taken by George M. Young, Albert Anderson, Annette Strinski, and Gilbert Campbell, under the supervision of Kenneth C. Blood.

The Inventory was prepared for publication by the state editorial staff of The Historical Records Survey at Chicago, under the supervision of Herbert R. Rifkind. Assisting were Martine O'Connor, in charge of editing and re-editing, and Kathleen Summitt, in charge of arranging and indexing. Legal essays were prepared under the supervision of Irving E. Barnett, assisted by Katherine D. Holmgren. The format of the Inventory was prepared and the material collated under the supervision of Edward J. McDonough. Typing, stencil cutting, and mimeographing were supervised by Dorothy V. Herold. In addition, too much credit cannot be given to the other members of the editorial, research, and typing staffs for their intelligent and diligent cooperation in the compilation of this Inventory.

The various units of the Inventory of County Archives of Illinois will be available for distribution to governmental offices, libraries, schools, and historical societies in Illinois, and libraries and governmental agencies in other states. Requests for information concerning particular units of the Inventory should be addressed to the state director. It is planned to publish a separate History of Jackson County in the near future as a supplement to this Inventory. This History will be compiled from and completely documented to original county records and other primary source material.

All of the officers of Jackson County cooperated in every possible way with the workers, and grateful acknowledgment of their aid is hereby made. I also wish to express appreciation for the assistance rendered by the officers of the Illinois State Library, and by the officials of the Illinois Works Progress Administration and the Federal Writers' Project. For the cover design and the binding we are indebted respectively to the Federal Art Project, and the Bookbinding Project of District 3, Chicago, Illinois.

1. GOVERNMENTAL ORGANIZATION AND RECORDS SYSTEM

Introduction

Historical Background

Jackson County was created as a county of Illinois Territory by an act of the territorial legislature approved January 10, 1816, which was to take effect and be in force on and after April 1 of that year.¹ Among the provisions of the act were the naming of the county after General Andrew Jackson, hero of the Battle of New Orleans; the fixing of the boundaries; the appointment of commissioners to create a permanent seat of justice; and the designation of the house of Nathan Davis on Big Muddy River as the temporary meeting place for the territorial county court. One year later, on January 11, 1817, the legislature named Brownville as the permanent county seat.² After the fire of 1843 which completely destroyed the county courthouse, the legislature passed an act on February 24, 1843,³ permitting the citizens of Jackson to vote on the question of the relocation of the county seat. In the election hold in August a majority of the electorate voted for a change.⁴ The three commissioners appointed by the act to do the relocating chose a twenty-acre tract situated four miles west of Brownville which had been donated for that purpose by Dr. John Logan and his wife.⁵ The new town, named Murphys Borough after William C. Murphy, one of the three commissioners, and later changed to Murphysboro, has been the county seat ever since.

Scope of County Government

The county in Illinois is a corporate body⁶ and an administrative unit of the state; its governmental organization is at all times largely an expression of this dual nature.

The growth of the county as a body politic is reflected, in each of the state's three constitutional periods, in a progressive expansion of the powers which may by law be exercised by the county board, and in the creation of new, and the extension of existing, county offices. The latter phase of growth in Jackson County and others similarly organized at present, has also been affected by the adoption of township organization, which for the first time constituted the civil towns as an additional level of government.

An analogous development appears in the state's invasion of new fields of government and the extension of the county's role as its agent. Originally, the county performed but a single important function for the state, that of collecting its share of the taxes levied within the county. Since then, however, education, public health, registration of vital statistics, public assistance, and many similar if less important matters have entered the province of state control or supervision. To effect this control, new governmental units, subcounty districts of various types, have come into existence or have been converted to new purposes; the county, because of its intermediate position, has become more important as a medium of that control.

Thus the complete operation of county government in Illinois brings in to play a number of partly distinct authorities. Their relationships, at any time, are complex. The changing governmental organization of Jackson County, therefore, is easiest traced from the viewpoint of the major functions of county government.

General Administration

General administrative jurisdiction over county business has always been vested in the county board. As a territorial county, Jackson's first administrative body was the county court, which consisted of three judges appointed by the Governor of the Territory.¹ From January 9, 1818 to the fourth Monday in April 1819, a Justices' Court, composed of justices of the peace, any three of whom constituted a court, or quorum, functioned as the county administrative unit.² Under the first constitution, for all counties, the county commissioners' court acted as the county board.³ It was expressly declared to have no original or appellate jurisdiction in civil or criminal actions, but had all power necessary to the exercise of its jurisdiction in cases concerning the public affairs of the county collectively.⁴ The commissioners were constitutional officers,⁵ and elected;⁶ the court existed solely by statutory provision.⁷ Attached to it in a ministerial capacity was the independent statutory office of clerk of the county commissioners' court,⁸ at first filled at the appointment of the court,⁹ later by election;¹⁰ the clerk was bonded in the sum of $1,000.¹¹

Under the second constitution, the newly-created county court succeeded to the position of the county commissioners' court.¹ As an administrative body,² it was composed of the county judge, an elected, constitutional officer,³ and two justices of the peace, statutory officers,⁴ elected at large.⁵ Another new office, that of clerk of the county court, was created to provide it with a ministerial officer; the clerk also was elected, and bonded in the sum of $3,000.⁶

The Constitution of 1848 also made provision, for the first time, for an optional form of county government.⁷ The subsequent enabling acts⁸ provided that whenever the voters of a county might so determine, that county should adopt township organization; one of the principal results of such a change was to alter the legal status of the county board.⁹ Jackson County so elected in 1872, and the county court was succeeded by a board of supervisors, composed of members elected one in each of the several townships.¹⁰ The clerk of the county court was required by law to act as the ministerial officer of the new county board.¹¹ In 1874, however, that clerk was replaced by a new officer, the county clerk, whose office had been created, and made elective, by the third constitution.¹² The county clerk was required by law to act as ministerial officer for the county board,¹³ which determined in what amount he should be bonded.¹⁴ Another significant change in the legal status of the county board, has been the addition to its membership of assistant supervisors, elected from the various towns on the basis of population;¹⁵ the assistant supervisors have no power or duties as town officers, but are members of the county board and as such enjoy the same powers and rights as other members.¹⁶

The Constitution of 1870 also provided for a new form of county board in counties not under township organization. This board, was to be composed of three officers, styled commissioners, who would transact all county business as provided by law. Subsequent legislation granted to the board of county commissioners all powers and duties formerly exercised by the county court acting in its administrative capacity.¹ Jackson County functioned under this administrative body from 1875 to 1878, and later from 1883 to 1885.

Concurrent with the changing legal status of the county board is an expansion of its functions without, however, considerable extension beyond the original jurisdiction conferred upon the county commissioners' court. The authority of that body extended to the imposition and regulation of taxes,² a limited but increasing management of county property,³ and a growing fiscal control, stringent in regard to tax collections,⁴ sporadic in its check on the expenditures of other county offices.⁵ The court additionally had power to appoint judges of election,⁶ select juries,⁷ and, with limitations, to provide for the construction and maintenance of roads and bridges.⁸ Poor relief⁹ and a tentative supervision of education¹⁰ also fell within its general administrative jurisdiction.

The effect of subsequent legislation, in the main, has only been to broaden that jurisdiction. The county board has been given full power to purchase, contract for, dispose of, and make regulations concerning all real and personal property of the county.¹¹ It is now required also to audit all claims against the county and the accounts of such officers as are not provided for by law.¹² Otherwise, the many changes in the form of county board in Jackson County have not materially affected the general administrative jurisdiction of that body.¹³

Finances

In Illinois counties, there has always been a close relationship between the taxation processes and the fiduciary function. This circumstance, as well as frequent evidence of the county board's ultimate control in such matters, appears in a resume of the legal status and duties of the officers involved.

Taxation

The assessment function in taxation was delegated by the first General Assembly to the county treasurer, a statutory officer appointed by the county commissioners' court.¹ The administrative body, within statutory limits, fixed the amount of the levy, while the value of many categories of real and personal property was fixed by law; however, a limited discretion was left to the assessing officer.² In 1825 assessments were made by the county assessor, also an appointee of the county commissioners' court.³ This duty reverted to the county treasurer in 1827⁴ and continued to be vested in that office until 1839, when the General Assembly provided for the appointment by the county commissioners' court of district assessors, not to exceed one in every justice's district.⁵ The earlier system was re-established in 1844, with the treasurer, however, now having the status of ex-officio county assessor.⁶ Since Jackson County's adoption of township organization in 1872, the assessment function has been performed on the lower governmental level by town assessors elected one in each township,⁷ with the exception of those years (1875-78, 1883-85) when the commissioner form of government was adopted by Jackson County, and the county treasurer acted as assessor.⁸ Today, the principal duties of the assessing officers, taken together, are to bring up to date each year the periodic assessment of real property, to take current lists of, and appraise personal property and special categories of other property.⁹ The treasurer has now the status of ex-officio supervisor of assessments.¹⁰

The functions which today fall within the scope of the board of review were originally dispersed and attenuated. In the first constitutional period, it was left to interested individuals or parties to report property omitted from assessment; the county board could hear appeals from assessments, but there was no provision for their equalization by districts.¹ During the second constitutional period, appeals, in Jackson County, were made to the county court.² After the adoption of township organization in 1872, town boards were empowered to revise the assessments within their own jurisdiction, and the county board was required to meet annually to assess omitted property, review assessments upon complaint, and equalize valuations between towns,³ with the exception of those years during which the commissioner form of government obtained in Jackson County when the board of county commissioners heard appeals.⁴ In 1898 this authority of the county board was transferred to the newly-created board of review, composed of the chairman of the county board as ex-officio chairman, the county clerk as ex-officio clerk, and an additional member appointed by the county judge.⁵ In 1923 the county clerk was replaced by another member appointed by the county judge;⁶ the board of review now appoints its own clerk.⁷

The collection function was originally performed in all counties by the sheriff, an elected constitutional officer.⁸ Its nature has changed little since that time. Essentially, the collecting officer collects taxes according to information originating outside his jurisdiction, pays over such sums to authorities designated by statute to receive them, and reports on payments of taxes and delinquencies.⁹ In 1839, by a development analagous to that which occurred with regard to assessments, the county board extended its control to appoint a regular county collector, and for the first time the officer of collection was required to be bonded.¹⁰ Soon after the law reverted to the earlier situation, with the sheriff acting as ex-officio collector.¹¹ This situation continued until Jackson County adopted township organization when town collectors were elected, one in each township, and the county treasurer became ex-officio county collector.¹ The town officers paid over their collections directly to the county officer, and supplied the basic information for the latter's summary report of collections in the county.² A change in this procedure occurred in 1875 when Jackson County abandoned township organization for the commissioner form of government. During the three years following, and for two more years between 1883 and 1885, collections were made by the sheriff in an ex-officio capacity.³ Jackson reverting to township organization in 1885, the earlier system prevailed until 1917 when the town office of collector was abolished in counties the size of Jackson, and the county collector became ex-officio town collector, assuming all duties previously assigned to the latter officer.⁴

Coordination of the taxation processes has always been effected by the county clerk or his predecessors. The assessment books are made out by the clerk, and returned to him by the assessor; similarly, the collector reports on collections on delinquent property; finally, the treasurer's receipts to the collector for taxes paid come into his possession, and the centralization of records concerning the basic taxation procedure is completed.⁵

Fiscal Control

The fiduciary function in county finances belongs to the county treasurer alone. Only one change of importance has affected his legal status in addition to those already noted in regard to his other functions; the office is now constitutional.⁶ Bond was originally required in the sum of $2,000,⁷ but since 1827 the penalty sum has been set by the county board, which is also judge of the sufficiency of the securities.⁸ The duties of the office have remained substantially the same since its creation; namely, to receive, principally from the collectors of taxes, the revenue of the county; to have custody of its funds; and to disburse funds only by specific authorization by law, or in accordance with the order of the county board.⁹ Through this last requirement, and that of the treasurer to report periodically to the board on the transactions of his office, in addition to his

Administration of Justice

Courts

Justice, in Illinois counties, has been administered by a constantly increasing number of bodies. The Constitution of 1818 vested the judicial powers of the state in a supreme court and such inferior courts as the General Assembly should ordain and establish; required the supreme court justices to hold circuit courts in the several counties; and provided for the appointment, in such manner and with such powers and duties as the General Assembly should direct, of a competent number of justices of the peace in each county.²

Federal statutes already allowed circuit courts, in all states, jurisdiction over the naturalization of aliens;³ the first state legislature additionally conferred jurisdiction over all causes at common law and chancery, and over all cases of treason, felony, and other crimes and misdemeanors.⁴ The legislature further required that two terms of a circuit court be held in each county annually by one of the supreme court justices,⁵ but in 1824 provision was made for the holding of circuit courts by separate circuit court judges, to be appointed, as were the supreme court justices, by both branches of the General Assembly, and to hold office during good behavior.⁶ In 1827 the General Assembly repealed the 1824 law, and again provided for circuit courts to be held by supreme court justices.⁷ At the next session of the legislature, when a new circuit was established, provision was made for the appointment of a circuit judge to act therein.⁸ At that time, therefore, the circuit courts were held by supreme court justices in four judicial circuits and by a circuit judge in the fifth.⁹ A change was made again in 1835, when power to hold circuit courts was taken away from the supreme court justices and provision was made for the appointment of five circuit judges, in addition to the one already authorized, to hold circuit courts.¹ The six judicial circuits existing at that time were supplemented during the next few years by the creation of new circuits,² so that they numbered nine in 1841 when the office of circuit judge was again abolished and the supreme court justices, also increased to nine, were required to hold circuit courts.³

The authority of justices of the peace was limited by law to jurisdiction in specified civil cases and in misdemeanors, with appeals allowed from their judgments to the circuit court.⁴ The power of appointment, the legislature at first reserved to itself;⁵ in 1827, however, justices of the peace were required to be elected, two in each of such districts as should be determined within statutory limits by the county commissioners' court.⁶

Jurisdiction over probate matters was at the outset delegated to the county commissioners' court.⁷ By act of the next General Assembly, it was transferred to the court of probate,⁸ consisting in each county of one judge appointed by the General Assembly.⁹ As a result of the substitution in 1839 of probate justices of the peace for the judges of probate,¹⁰ jurisdiction over probate matters for the first time was placed in the hands of elected officers.¹¹

The county court was the creation of the second constitution,¹² which also made circuit judges elected officers.¹³ With regard to the new court, it was further provided by law that it should be held in each county by a single elected officer, the county judge.¹ Its authority was extended to jurisdiction in all probate matters, and to such jurisdiction in civil and criminal cases as might be conferred by the General Assembly.² In pursuance of this latter provision, the county court was first given the same civil and criminal jurisdiction as justices of the peace;³ at the same session of the General Assembly, however, it was declared that county judges when exercising this jurisdiction, acted only in the capacity of justices of the peace.⁴ Until the next constitutional period, the county court, as such, was given jurisdiction only in a limited number of special actions;⁵ it was, however, considered entitled to equal jurisdiction with the circuit court over naturalization.⁶ In this same period, provision was made for increasing, on the basis of population, the number of justices of the peace to be elected in each district. In Jackson County, and others similarly organized, one additional justice of the peace is now elected for every one thousand inhabitants exceeding two thousand inhabitants in each town.⁷

Provision was first made by the Constitution of 1870 for the establishment by the General Assembly of an independent probate court in each county having a population of more than fifty thousand inhabitants.⁸ As first established by statute, the new courts were to be formed in counties of one hundred thousand or more inhabitants.⁹ This population requirement was lowered to seventy thousand in 1881.¹⁰ The population of Jackson County not having reached this figure, jurisdiction over probate matters has continued to be vested in the county court in accordance with constitutional provision to that effect.¹¹ The county court, early in this period, was given concurrent jurisdiction with the circuit court in appeals from justices of the peace;¹² its original jurisdiction was extended to be equal with that of the circuit court in all that class of cases cognizable by justices of the peace¹³ and involving in controversy sums not exceeding five hundred dollars.¹ In 1906, however, it lost its naturalization jurisdiction since it failed to meet the additional requirements of Federal legislation that it possess jurisdiction at law without limitation upon amounts in controversy.² The present constitution, also, for the first time, directed the manner in which the General Assembly should establish judicial circuits, requiring that circuits be formed of contiguous counties and that they should not exceed in number one circuit for every one hundred thousand of population of the state.³ At present there are eighteen circuits in Illinois, and Jackson County is attached to the first circuit.⁴

Clerks of Courts

The clerk of the circuit court under the Constitution of 1818, was to be appointed by a majority of the justices of that court.⁵ Since 1849, however, by provisions of the constitutions of 1848 and 1870, the office has been filled by election.⁶ The office of clerk of the county court,⁷ which was an independent elective office under the second constitution,⁷ is now filled in an ex-officio capacity by the county clerk⁸ who is also required by constitutional provision to be elected.⁹ The county commissioners' court, which for a brief period held jurisdiction over probate matters, had its own clerk who was at that time appointed by the court.¹⁰ Probate judges and justices of the peace who subsequently held probate jurisdiction, were required to act as their own clerks.¹¹ With the transfer of probate jurisdiction to the county court, the clerk of the county court was required to keep, separately, records of probate proceedings and business.¹² In Jackson County where the county court still retains probate jurisdiction, the county clerk serves it in these matters in his capacity as ex-officio clerk of the county court.¹³ Justices of the peace have always been required to keep their records in person.¹⁴

Ministerial Officers

The principal ministerial officer of all courts of record in Illinois counties is the sheriff. The first constitution provided that the sheriff should be elected;¹ bond in the sum of $10,000 was required by the enabling law that established the office,² and for Jackson County the requirement has not since been altered.³ Statutory provision was made in 1827 for the appointment of deputies by the principal officer;⁴ since 1870, the number of deputies that the sheriff may appoint is determined by rule of the circuit court.⁵ The ministerial duties of the sheriff have undergone little change in more than one hundred years. Essentially he is to attend, in person or by deputy, all courts of record in the county, obeying the orders and directions of the court, and to serve, execute, and return all writs, warrants, process, orders, and decrees legally directed to him.⁶

The coroner was originally given equal power with the sheriff as a ministerial officer of the courts.⁷ He was also required to serve all process in any suit in which the sheriff was an interested party⁸ and to perform all the duties of the sheriff when that office was vacant.⁹ The last two functions are still incumbent upon the coroner today.¹⁰

Justices of the peace are served similarly in a ministerial capacity by constables. Not until 1870 was the office of constable given constitutional recognition;¹¹ at its creation by the first General Assembly, the county commissioners' court was empowered to appoint one or more constables in each township;¹² in 1827 it was provided that two constables should be elected in each justice of the peace district.¹³ Since that date, subsequent legislation has grouped justices of the peace and constables in all provisions regarding their election.¹ Constables, like sheriffs and coroners, have always been required to serve and execute all process legally directed to them;² process issuing from a justice of the peace court, however, may be directed only to some constable of the same county.³

Prosecutions

The duty of the present state's attorney to prosecute and defend all actions, civil or criminal, involving the county, the people, or officers of the state or county,⁴ was incumbent during the first constitutional period upon the circuit attorney.⁵ Also in effect from an early date is the officer's other major duty, apart from the enforcement of law,⁶ of giving opinions on any questions of law relating to criminal or other matters in which the people of the county may be concerned.⁷

The office of circuit attorney which existed solely by statutory provision,⁸ was appointive by the Governor until 1835,⁹ and thereafter by the General Assembly.¹⁰ The second constitution replaced the circuit attorney with an elected state's attorney;¹¹ since each judicial circuit was an elective district for this purpose, the territorial jurisdiction of the new officer remained the same as that of the former officer.¹² Not until the present constitution was provision made for the election of a separate state's attorney in each county.¹³ Bond has been required in the sum of $5,000 since 1872.¹⁴

Inquests

The holding of inquests, one of the duties of the coroner in Illinois counties, is also a part of the administration of justice. The office of coroner was created by the first constitution and required to be filled by election;¹ the statutory provisions concerning the inquest function have not changed substantially since their enactment by the second General Assembly.² The coroner, when informed of the body of any person being found dead, supposedly by violence, casualty, or undue means, is required to summon a jury to inquire how, in what manner, and by whom or what, death was caused; testimony of witnesses is taken; witnesses whose evidence implicates any person as the unlawful slayer of the deceased are bound over to the circuit court; the verdict of the jury is returned to the clerk of that court.³

The verdict of the coroner's jury, however, is not generally admissible in evidence;⁴ additionally, it is not held to be prima facie proof of matters stated therein with regard to the cause and manner of death;⁵ its essential nature, therefore, is that of a finding of facts upon the basis of which the coroner may be led to discharge his collateral duty to apprehend and commit to jail any person implicated by the inquest as the unlawful slayer of the deceased.⁶ To this extent, the coroner's inquest duties overlap his function as an officer for the enforcement of law.

Enforcement of Law

Sheriffs, coroners, and constables have always been charged equally with keeping the peace and apprehending all offenders against the law.⁷ The state's attorney's powers as an officer for the enforcement of law originally derive by implication from another duty;⁸ the gathering of evidence and the apprehension of offenders is necessarily involved in commencing and prosecuting actions in which the people of the state or county are concerned.⁹ In relatively recent years, however, the state's attorney has been given more specific statutory powers to enforce laws and to investigate violations and secure necessary evidence thereof.¹ But at any time the effective spheres of authority of law enforcement officers have been determined less by statutory provisions than by local conditions and individual circumstances.

Education

The act of Congress providing for the creation and admission of the State of Illinois to the Union set aside section 16 of every township for the use of schools.² The first state legislation on the subject was concerned only with the establishment of school districts and the sale or leasing of school land to provide necessary funds, for which purposes three trustees of school lands were appointed in each township by the county commissioners' court.³

In 1825, however, with a common school system in operation, provision was made for its educational as well as financial administration. Three elected officers, known as township school trustees, were charged in each township with superintending schools, examining and employing teachers, leasing all land belonging to the district, and reporting annually to the county commissioners' court; this report, however, was limited to such matters as were concerned in the financial administration of the schools.⁴ In 1827 the county commissioners' court was again empowered to appoint trustees of school lands, but despite the use of the earlier, more limited title, these officers were charged with all the duties of the former township school trustees.⁵ The creation of office of county school commissioner in 1829 brought a new element into the complex situation. The commissioner was at first given limited duties with regard to the sale of school lands and the management of school funds;⁶ his subsequent gains in this respect at the expense of the township trustees foreshadowed the demarcation of spheres of authority that were made in 1847.⁷ In the interim, the school commissioner, who had first been appointed by the county commissioners' court,⁸ became an elected officer;¹ in such townships as elected to incorporate for the purpose of organizing and supporting schools, township trustees also became elected officers and were there denominated trustees of schools.²

The situation created by the legislation of 1847 in certain respects has not since been substantially altered. In all counties, township trustees became, and are still, elected officers styled township school trustees.³ The relative authority of the officer of the county⁴ and of officers of the township with regard to financial administration was fixed essentially as at present.⁵ Moreover, township trustees lost practically all their former duties with regard to matters purely educational as a result of a development that occurred in 1845.

It was at that time that the county first entered into the actual administration of education with the creation of the office of superintendent of schools.⁶ Filled at first by the school commissioner in an ex-officio capacity,⁷ it quickly absorbed most of the functions of township trustees with regard to the advancement of education;⁸ later, the office came to be filled by election⁹ and completely absorbed that of school commissioner.¹⁰ In the new field of county administration of education, the superintendent's duties remained constant through his change in legal status, requiring him to visit all the townships in his county and inquire into the condition and manner of conducting their schools, to examine persons proposing to teach school, to grant certificates to persons qualified to teach in schools, and to report to the county board on all his acts relating to the management of school funds and lands.¹¹ Subsequent legislation has enlarged the scope of this phase of the superintendent's functions, but it is in his role as an agent of state supervision that he has been charged with numerous duties of a new character.¹

The authority of the state with regard to education, first manifested in 1845, has, like that of the county, been extended beyond its original bounds. Originally the county superintendent was required only to communicate to the state superintendent of common schools² information concerning the schools in his county.³ Today, as a consequence of the state's increasing intervention in matters of public health and safety, the county superintendent is required to inspect, with regard to specifications, plans submitted to him for the heating, ventilation, lighting, etc., of public school rooms and buildings; to visit and notice such public school buildings which appear to him to be unsafe, insanitary, or otherwise unfit for occupancy; and to request the state board of health, the state fire marshal, or the state architect to inspect such buildings and issue reports upon which condemnation proceedings can be based.⁴

Recordation

For the function of making legal record of written instruments, the first General Assembly established the office of recorder.⁵ Originally appointed by the Governor,⁶ the recorder was required to be elected after 1835.⁷ The second constitution made the clerk of the circuit court⁸ ex-officio recorder in all counties;⁹ the present constitution continues the earlier provision in counties of under 60,000 population and provides for the election of a recorder in counties of that population or more.¹⁰ As Jackson County never met the population requirement, the clerk of the circuit court has continued to fulfill the duties of recorder. Bond, originally set at $1,500 in all counties,¹¹ is now required in the penalty sum of $20,000 in those in the higher population bracket and $10,000 in those where the office of recorder has not a separate incumbent.¹²

The basic duty of the recorder, to record at length and in the order of their receipt all instruments in writing, has remained essentially unchanged; legislation has been directed toward the extension of categories of instruments entitled to be recorded.¹ Conveyances of title to land, a major category of such records, frequently involve another county officer, the surveyor. Established by the General Assembly,² the office of surveyor was at first filled by appointment of that body,³ later by election.⁴ In 1936 the surveyor again became an appointed officer, with the power of appointment delegated to the county board.⁵ His duty to perform all surveys he may be called on to make within his county has undergone only minor change, but its importance has declined; the acts of any surveyor, properly acknowledged and certified, have equal standing before the law with those of the county surveyor; no maps or plats have any legal effect unless recorded by the recorder.⁶

Public Works

Roads and Bridges

Public roads and bridges were first under the superintendence of the county commissioners' court which was authorized to locate new roads and alter or vacate existing roads.⁷ The act providing for such superintendence empowered the commissioners to appoint freeholders in each township to act as supervisors, each appointment to be for a one-year period. New roads were to be opened by the county commissioners' court upon petition of residents of the county and a favorable report from the road viewers and surveyor. A few years later the county commissioners were authorized to divide the county into road districts and to appoint annually one supervisor to serve in each district.⁸ With a change in the county administrative body under the second constitution, the county court was granted supervision and control over public roads,⁹ but the care and superintendence of roads and bridges in counties electing the township form of government, was granted to the commissioners of highways, elected in each town for one year.¹⁰ The commissioners divided the town into road districts, and overseers of highways in each district were to repair the roads and carry out orders of the commissioners. In counties not electing the township form, the system of road districts was continued. Jackson County did not adopt township organization until 1872, and the supervision, control, and maintenance of roads, highways, and bridges during the second constitutional period were vested in the county court and the road district supervisors.¹ In 1913 the state highway department was established, and provision was made for the appointment by the county board of a county superintendent of highways.² The entire system was centralized by subjecting the county superintendent to the rules and regulations of the state highway commissioner and by requiring candidates for county superintendent to be approved by the state commissioner before appointment by the county board. The term of the county superintendent was set at six years, and his salary was to be fixed by the county board. A board of highway commissioners was set up in each township to superintend matters relating to roads and bridges. Although the county superintendent was to act on behalf of the county in regard to roads and bridges, and although he was subject to removal by the county board, he was regarded as a deputy of the state highway engineer, subject to his directions. This indicates the intention of the legislature to unify the entire state system of roads and bridges. In 1917 the department of public works and buildings assumed the rights, powers, and duties vested in the state highway department,³ but the county organization has remained essentially the same since 1913.

Public Buildings

The county is given the power to hold, own, and convey real estate for county purposes.⁴ This power is exercised by the county board which is charged with the care and custody of all the real and personal property owned by the county. Throughout the period of statehood it has been provided that a courthouse and jail be erected in each county, and that the sheriff of each county be charged with custody of such buildings.⁵ The county is further empowered to erect buildings for a county hospital, workhouse, tuberculosis sanitarium, and other county needs.⁶

During those years (1875-78, 1883-85) when Jackson abandoned township organization for the commissioner form of government, roads, highways, and bridges were cared for and maintained at the direction of three highway commissioners elected in each road district (L.1871-72, p. 679, 680).

The county superintendent of schools is charged with the inspection of plans and specifications for public school rooms and buildings; and the approval of only those which comply with the specifications prepared by the state superintendent of public instruction.¹ He is also to request the state board of health, the state fire marshal, or the state architect to inspect public school buildings which appear to be unsafe, insanitary, or unfit for occupancy. Upon receipt of an unfavorable report from these officials, the county superintendent is to condemn the building and notify the board of directors or board of education, and the board of school trustees.

Drainage

In 1850 an act of Congress provided for the granting of swamp and overflowed lands to various states.² The land so granted to Illinois was turned over to the counties in 1852 to be reclaimed by drainage and used for county purposes.³ Such lands were to be under the care and superintendence of the county court which was to appoint a "Drainage Commissioner" to conduct the sales of such lands. The county surveyor was to prepare plats of the swamp lands and return such plats to the clerk of the county court, whereupon the court fixed the valuation upon each tract. The purchasers of these tracts were given a certificate by the drainage commissioner, and a deed was later executed by the county court. The court was to sell only enough swamp lands to insure reclamation of all such land, any balance to be granted to the several townships to be used for educational purposes. At the discretion of the county, such balance could also be used for the construction of roads, bridges, or other public works.

In 1865 the commissioners of highways in each town became ex-officio boards of drainage commissioners.⁴ Where a proposed drain ran through more than one town the commissioners of all the towns affected made up the board of drainage commissioners.⁵ In 1879 drainage construction by special assessment was handled by the drainage commissioners, a body corporate and politic composed of commissioners of highways.⁶

Provision was first made for the organization of drainage districts for agricultural, sanitary, and mining purposes in 1879.⁷ Petitions were to be filed with the county clerk and hearings on the same were to be had before the county court. When the court found in favor of the petitioners, it appointed three disinterested persons as commissioners to lay out and construct the work. Petitions for the construction of drains to cost less than five thousand dollars were to be presented to justices of the peace, if the petitioners so elected, and the commissioners of highways were to perform the duties of drainage commissioners in such cases. In 1885 this law was amended to include drains costing less than two thousand dollars and provided for the appointment of three residents as commissioners.¹

Public Services

Public Health

The state department of public health, created in 1917,² is charged with general supervision of the health and lives of the people of the state. In conformance with this legislative order it is empowered to supervise, aid, direct, and assist local health authorities or agencies in the administration of the health laws. Public health districts may be organized along subcounty lines with a board of health in each. The names of such districts are to be filed with the county clerk to complete their organization. Annually, each board of health certifies to the county clerk the rate of a public health tax to be levied in each district, the clerk being responsible for setting out the proper taxes upon the warrant books and transmitting them to the collector as provided for in regard to other taxes.³

Control of the state health department over lodging houses, boarding houses, taverns, inns, and hotels is effected through the county clerk, the proprietors of such establishments being required to file with the clerk an annual statement containing details as to sleeping accommodations for guests.⁴ The clerk is also required to report annually to the state health department the names and addresses of township officials.⁵

Mosquito abatement districts are organized upon petition to the county judge of the county in which such territory lies,⁶ such petitions being filed with the county clerk. If, after hearing, the county judge determines that the organization of a district is necessary, the question is submitted to the residents of the territory at a special election. The judges of election make return to the county judge, and the results are entered upon the records of the county court. A majority of the votes favoring it, a mosquito abatement district is thereupon organized.

County officials also enter into the state's control of public swimming pools. When a representative of the state department of public health finds conditions that warrant the closing of such a pool, the owner of the pool and the sheriff and state's attorney of the county are notified to that effect, it being the duty of these officers to enforce such notice.¹

Vital Statistics

The state department of public health has charge of the registration of births, stillbirths, and deaths throughout the state.² To effect proper control of this matter the state is divided into vital statistics registration districts which, in Jackson County, are identical with the townships. The township clerk acts as the local registrar in these districts and receives certificates of births and deaths occurring in the district. Burial permits are issued by the registrar and are later returned to him for filing.

The local registrar is required to deposit monthly with the county clerk a complete set of records of births, stillbirths, and deaths registered during the month, and the clerk is charged with binding and indexing, or recording, and safe-keeping of such records. The original certificates are sent monthly by the local registrars to the state health department which certifies annually to the county clerk the number of births, stillbirths, and deaths registered in the county.

The county board is to appropriate money for the payment of the local registrars' fees. Such amounts are charges against the county, and the county clerk is required to issue warrants on the county treasurer for the amount of the fees payable to the registrars.

The county also enters into the enforcement phase of this matter. The state health department reports cases of violations of any provision of the act relating to registration to the state's attorney who is to initiate and follow up court proceedings against violators.

Public Assistance

Public assistance is administered through the services of the county department of public welfare, the county home and hospital, the blind examiner, the probation officers, the county clerk, and the county board.

The county department of public welfare is headed by a superintendent appointed by the county board after approval by the state department of public welfare.³ He assists the state department in the operation of welfare plans and policies within the county and has charge of the administration of old age assistance.¹ In this latter regard the county department acts merely as the agent of the state department, investigating applicants and reporting results.

The county home is an establishment for the maintenance and care of indigents. Its management and finances are provided by the county board.² Blind assistance is administered in the county through appropriations by the county board together with state funds. An examiner of the blind, appointed by the county board, examines all applicants referred to him by the county clerk.³ The county court has jurisdiction in the administration of the mothers' pension fund. A probation officer, an appointee of the court for this purpose, investigates and visits cases of indigent mothers who are entitled to benefit.⁴

Coordination of Functions

From the foregoing discussion of functions of the county government it is apparent that the county plays a dual role, that of a body politic and that of an agent of the state. In its first capacity the county, through its officials, is capable of suing and being sued, purchasing, holding, and selling property, making contracts, and raising revenue for its proper operation. As a state agent it fits into a state-wide program on various matters of public concern, acting under the supervision and control of the state and coordinating the activities of subcounty agencies and officials.

Coordination of county activities is effected chiefly through the county clerk. An illustration of this is the part this official plays in the election procedure. He notifies the judges and clerks of elections of their appointment, supplies them with blanks and poll books, receives copies of registers of voters, issues notices of election, receives and preserves returns, canvasses votes with the assistance of two justices of the peace and retains the abstracts, transmits copies of election returns and abstracts of votes to the secretary of state, and issues certificates of election.

Records System

County records in the state of Illinois have suffered from the lack of an adequate program of legislation designed to secure uniformity in recordation and to insure the proper care of those documents which have permanent value. However, from the inception of statehood, some effort has been made to coordinate the records systems of the several counties and to preserve their archives.

In attempting to establish state-wide uniformity among counties, the General Assembly has at times provided detailed descriptions of required records and in many instances has supplied the very forms to be used. Laws relating to the duties and powers of county officers usually contained some such provisions. Thus, in 1819, the recorder of the county was ordered to supply "parchment or good large books, of royal or other large paper, well bound and covered" wherein to record all deeds and conveyances brought to him for that purpose. He was also to keep a fair book in which to enter every deed or writing to be recorded, noting the date, the parties, and the place where the lands were situated, such entries to be made according to priority of time.¹ In 1833 he was required to keep an alphabetical index to each book,² and by 1874 the General Assembly had prescribed a complete list of books to be kept in the office of the recorder, with a description of the contents of each, which list has been continued, substantially unchanged, to the present.³

In like manner, legislation was enacted prescribing records to be kept by the county clerk and his predecessors, acting in their several capacities,⁴ the clerk of the circuit court,⁵ the judge⁶ and justice of the probate court, the coroner,⁸ the county superintendent of schools,⁹ the county surveyor,¹⁰ and the county treasurer.¹¹

collection of revenue,¹ the organization and maintenance of common schools,² the registration of marriage³ and the recording of vital statistics.⁴

While there has been enacted much legislation prescribing the kind of records to be kept, only a few laws deal with the vital subject of the safeguarding and preservation of county archives. In 1819 the General Assembly directed the clerks of the circuit and county commissioners' courts to provide "a safe press or presses with locks and keys for the safe keeping of the archives of their offices....."⁵ In 1843 the county commissioners' courts were authorized, and required whenever the finances of the county would justify the expenditure, to erect a fire proof recorder's office at the county seat, or if the commissioners were of the opinion that any unappropriated room in their court houses could be made fire proof, to make it so and house the office and records of the recorder there.⁶ At the discretion of the county commissioners' courts, the provisions of this act might be deemed to apply to the offices of the clerks of the circuit and county commissioners' courts. Similar in content but slightly different in wording is a later enactment in which the county commissioners' courts were authorized to "erect, build, and provide permanent fire proof rooms, houses or vaults, for the purpose of placing therein and preserving from injury, damage, loss, or destruction by fire, the records and documents of their respective counties."⁷ The preservation of county archives has been greatly aided by an act to provide for the copying of old, worn-out records,⁸ and by a law authorizing the transfer of county records having historic value to the Illinois State Historical Library at Urbana. Provision is made in this Act for the substitution of accurate copies of these documents if such action be deemed necessary.⁹ In 1907 the Act was amended to include among the institutions to which old records might be sent, the Illinois State Historical Society and the State University Library at Urbana.¹⁰ Laws providing for the restoration of certain classes of records which have been destroyed by fire or other means have also been passed.¹ In 1935 the General Assembly appropriated money for the construction of a fire proof building at Springfield for the purpose of storing therein the archives and records of the state.² The erection of this structure, the State Archives Building, has helped to make possible the inauguration of an intelligent, far-sighted program for the preservation of papers and documents of historic value.

There are still serious omissions in legislation pertaining to recordation. For instance, Illinois has no law prescribing the kinds of inks to be used in keeping records. And, although laws have been enacted authorizing the provision of fire-proof accommodations for county documents, they are permissive rather than mandatory in character.³ Legislation enabling the destruction of worthless archives apparently is non-existent with the exception of laws relating to certain election papers.⁴

The enactment of legislation which would remedy these defects in the laws and continue the trend toward state-wide uniformity among counties would result in an intelligent, economical records system for the state of Illinois.

 The first administrative body in the county was the county court which consisted of three judges appointed by the Governor of the Territory. From January 9, 1818 to the fourth Monday in April 1819, a Justices' Court, composed of justices of the peace, any three of whom constituted a court or quorum, functioned as an administrative unit over county business. Three county commissioners were to be elected at this later date but provision was not made until 1821 for a biennial election. The county commissioners' court continued to 1849. From 1849-72, a county court, composed of the county judge and two associate justices administered county business; 1872-75, administration was vested in a county board of supervisors composed of one supervisor from the several townships; 1875-78, a board of county commissioners, composed of three county commissioners functioned as the governing unit; 1878-83, the board of supervisors again served; 1883-85, a board of county commissioners served the second time; 1885 to date, the county board of supervisors has administered county business. 11. County records show Richard A. Bradley, not Richard Brundley, as one of the county commissioners. Ibid.
12. By a law passed in 1837, the three commissioners elected in 1838 drew lots for one, two, and three years to determine their length of term. Subsequently, one commissioner was elected each year to serve a three-year term.
13. No reason can be discovered for Hill running for commissioner two years in succession since, according to the law of 1837, he would have held office, if elected, for three years. Election returns in 1840 show Hill received 343 votes and George Butcher 342 votes. Because Butcher ran again three years later, in 1843, it is probable that Hill did not hold office from 1840-41, but was elected for the term 1841-43.
14. County records show Peter Gill not Peter Gile, as one of the county commissioners. County Court Record, 1843-56, v. D, p. 2.

County Board of Supervisors

The several township supervisors, one elected from each township, together with any additional and assistant supervisors elected upon proportional representation, make up the membership of the county board of supervisors. Because these supervisors individually are township officials, and only as a group constitute the county board, they are not commissioned by the State as county officers, and no data concerning them, from which a list could be compiled, are kept by the State. Township organization was first adopted at the November election of 1871, and on December 11, the county court ordered special commissioners to divide the county into townships. The first three pages of volume one of Supervisors' Records, beginning in 1872 show the division of the county into seventeen townships. The board met for the first time on May 13, 1872 and consisted of the following:²

Edward Schwartz	James B. Reichart	Thomas F. Robinson
Philip Davis	Jasper Decker	A. W. Rogers
Henry E. Williamson	Daniel Worthen	Elias Worthen
B. F. Hanks	W. W. H. Mansker	William E. Talbot
Philip R. Kimmel	Madison Price	William Underwood
John A. McClure	John Hessick

Change to the board of county commissioners' form of government was made in 1875. Township organization was chosen a second time in the November election of 1877 and the county was divided into fourteen townships March 28, 1878. The first meeting was held on April 16, 1878, and the members of the board included:³

Philip Kimmel	Wm. H. Davis	T. J. Prickett
A. J. Grubb	M. S. Childers	T. T. Robinson

1. County records do not show election of Swartzcope and Gill in 1849, but do show their election March 6, 1854. County Court Record, 1843-56, v. D, p. 492.

 3. Ibid., p. 299.

D. S. Williamson	Park Grosvenor	George Wolf
W. C. Rogers	J. M. Reichart	Mat Price
Joseph H. Culley	Jeff Jenkins

Again, in 1883, a change was made to the board of county commissioners, but in 1885 the township plan was permanently adopted and the county was divided into sixteen townships March 3, 1885. The first meeting was held April 28, the board consisting of the following members:¹

W. E. Talbot	J. M. Richart	Wm. Denning
W. W. H. Mansker	William Rendleman	William Bradley, Jr.
Wm. R. Lee	Kesterson McCoy	C. S. Griffith
Thomas Dickie	Joseph Pastian	J. R. Easterly

2. William Wilson, Charles Humphreys, Timothy Nash appointed by Governor of Illinois Territory as clerks of the county court. Publications of the Illinois State Historical Library, op. cit., p. 40, 47, 54, 58. Secretary of state records show these men commissioned as clerks of the county commissioners' court.
3. Daniel H. Brush was appointed clerk of the county commissioners' court September 5, 1836 to replace Joel Manning, resigned. County Commissioners' Court Record, 1835-41, p. 27. State records do not show clerks appointed after Timothy Nash in 1818 up to the election of Brush in 1839. County records show Joel Manning appointed clerk to succeed Samuel Burton July 2, 1825. County Commissioners' Court Record, 1823-35, p. 40. The first mention of Burton in county records is on September 1, 1823 when he presented his account against the county. Ibid., p. 2. Since state records show three county commissioners elected in 1821, it is probable that Burton was appointed clerk by this court, and reappointed by the commissioners elected in 1822.

* State records show no school commissioners commissioned or elected between the years 1816-41. Bond of Daniel B. Tuthill, as school commissioner, accepted September 6, 1836, County Commissioners' Court Record, 1836-41, p. 30. County records do not show any school commissioners prior to 1836, or subsequent to 1841, except Tuthill.

1. May be the same Daniel B. Tuthill as shown in footnote above.

2. HOUSING, CARE, AND ACCESSIBILITY OF THE RECORDS

The first courthouse in Jackson County, located in Belleville, was a two-story frame structure completed in March 1825 at a cost of $2,400.¹ When it was destroyed by fire, June 10, 1843,² a site was chosen in Murphysboro,³ the new county seat, and the second courthouse, a two-story brick building, was erected at a cost of $4,659.⁴ It was completed for occupancy September 3, 1845,⁵ the court meeting meanwhile in rooms rented from Francis Meeha and John Logan in Brownsville.⁶ By 1858 this courthouse proved too small for the increased business of the county and, on March 19,⁷ the erection of a bigger building was decided upon. Costing $7,000, this structure was completed sufficiently for occupancy by December 1859.⁸ This courthouse proved adequate over a period of many years for, with two major alterations and additions, one in 1870 at a cost of $2,975,⁹ the other in 1877 amounting to $10,850,¹⁰ the same building remained in use until 1926 when on November 2, the citizens of Jackson County authorized a $375,000 bond issue for the erection of a new courthouse.¹¹ The old structure was razed and meetings were held at 11 and 13 North Tenth Street, Murphysboro,¹² until the new courthouse, erected on the site of the old one, was completed and dedicated in the autumn of 1929.

The new home of county government is 120 feet square, and three stories or 62 feet in height. In detail, it is classic in architectural style, with Doric-columned porticos on each facade. The main entrance faces north. An innovation that distinguishes this courthouse is the inclusion of the county jail on the third floor, set back from the main building line, and, to outward appearances, part of the roof assembly. Steel, concrete, and Bedford stone were used in the construction, making this a completely fireproof building. Space content is a little less than 900,000 cubic feet. Lighting and ventilation are adequately provided for by the large area of window space. Floors are of concrete; walls and ceilings are plastered. Ceilings in the basement and on the first floor are 13 feet high, on the second floor 14, and on the third 16. With the exception of wood shelving in the basement vaults, in the drafting room of the superintendent of highways, and in the treasurer's and sheriff's vaults, metal shelving is used in the other offices and vaults. In general, all offices and vaults are easily accessible to the public. Although the main entrance is located on the north side, access may be gained by three other entrances to the building from which entrances corridors lead to a large central hall, or lobby, upon which face most of the offices on the first floor.

The offices and vaults of the county clerk, circuit court clerk and recorder, superintendent of highways, superintendent of schools, sheriff, and treasurer, are located on the first floor. Two broad stairways, rising from the east and west ends of the central hall, lead to the second floor where are located jury rooms, courtrooms, supervisors' room, judges' chambers, law library, the state's attorney's office, and the old age assistance office. The west stairway continues on to the third floor where the county jail is located with its cellblocks, detention rooms, kitchen, dining room, jury room, laundry, bathrooms, and sickroom. Until overcrowding becomes more acute, necessitating additional storage room for records, only the north end of the basement is used as a depository. Two storage vaults on the northeast end are for the circuit court clerk and two on the northwest end for the county clerk. The remainder of the basement is given to a ladies' restroom, men's lounge, a large community room, and boiler, fuel, and store rooms.

The only records of Jackson County not contained in the courthouse are those of the coroner and of the superintendent of the county home. The former's are at his home in Carbondale while the latter keeps his in his residence near the county home.

The office of the county clerk covers 900 square feet of floor space and includes the main office and a small private office. An adjoining vault has an area of 875 square feet. Two large windows provide adequate ventilation in the office where approximately three percent of the clerk's records are kept on 36 linear feet of shelving placed in the center of the main office. The vault receives splendid ventilation and natural light from five windows with north and west exposures. In the center of the vault beneath an accommodation desk, and along all walls, are 933 linear feet of shelves for bound volumes of records, and four hundred file boxes, 18 inches in depth, for unbound records. Twenty-five percent of the county clerk's records are stored in this vault. In addition, one volume of the coroner's "Death Record, 1913-1914," and a part of the records of the superintendent of highways are kept here. Overcrowding is apparent, about twenty-five percent additional space being needed for the efficient care of records. However, this condition is only temporary as more space is available elsewhere. A stairway in the northeast corner of the vault leads to two basement storage vaults, designated as the west and east. They have an area of 1400 square feet. The west storage vault, 23 feet by 24 feet, has 90 feet of shelving on the south wall, but no records are kept in this vault. Four windows give sufficient ventilation. A drop cord electric light supplements natural light from the windows. The east storage vault, 30 feet by 36 feet, has 300 linear feet of shelving grouped in the south half of the room, 225 feet of which are used for bound volumes and 50 feet for unbound records. This room contains sixty-eight percent of the clerk's records, and, in addition, some belonging to the sheriff, treasurer, circuit court clerk, and superintendent of highways. Available space is adequate with ample room for expansion. There is only one window, however. Drop cord electric lights furnish auxiliary illumination. Three tables and seven chairs afford sufficient accommodations for consultants of the records. The final four percent of the clerk's records are housed in the treasurer's vault on the first floor.

The offices and vaults of the circuit court clerk and recorder, in general appearance, dimensions, and arrangements, bear close resemblance to those of the county clerk. They are located in the northeast corner of the courthouse and consist of the main office and vault, both of which are approximately 36 feet by 24 feet. In the main office, one percent of the circuit court clerk's records are stored on 21 linear feet of shelving placed in the center of the room. Two windows afford good light and ventilation, and drop cord electric lights furnish auxiliary light. The adjoining vault contains eighty-eight percent of the circuit court clerk's records, which are stored along all walls on 1100 linear feet of shelves and in four hundred file boxes, 15 inches in depth. Only about 900 feet of the shelving are used at present, providing ample room for expansion. A stairway in the northwest corner leads to the east storage vault in the basement and from this vault admittance is gained to a west storage vault. The east storage vault is 22 feet by 25 feet, while the west is 21 feet by 36 feet. Only the east storage vault is in use at present, and contains about nine percent of the circuit court clerk's records. These records are stored on 23 feet of shelves along the south wall. The remaining two percent of the circuit court clerk's records are stored in the county clerk's east storage vault in the basement. Part of the circuit court clerk's records in the first floor vault are the state's attorney's reports to the court, and copies of the coroner's inquest papers filed in "Miscellaneous Files." The charter of the Murphysboro Mutual Fire Insurance Company, a recorder's record, is kept in the first floor vault of the county clerk.

The treasurer's offices, with a total area of 800 square feet, consist of the main and private offices, and a vault. The main office is 24 feet by 28 feet, and has installed along its south wall 16 linear feet of shelving holding fifteen percent of the treasurer's records. Five large windows give fine light and ventilation. The treasurer's vault has an area of 100 square feet and contains fifty percent of the records. Along the north and east walls, 80 linear feet of shelving provide for records, but only about 20 feet are in use. There are no windows in the vault. In addition, thirty-five percent of the treasurer's records, among them four thousand small volumes of old tax receipts, are stored in the county clerk's east basement storage vault. The treasurer's private office contains no records. Accommodations for those who may wish to consult records are satisfactory. All electric fixtures are of the drop cord type.

The superintendent of schools has an inner and outer office having a total area of 600 square feet, and from the outer office is an entrance to a windowless vault with an area of 84 square feet. Twenty-five percent of the records are kept on 8 feet of shelving placed in the center of the outer office. This room is 24 feet by 30 feet, and has two windows. A door to the west leads to the windowless vault in which 80 linear feet of shelving along the west wall provide ample space for seventy-five percent of the records. The inner office, situated on the extreme southeast corner of the courthouse, is 11 feet by 24 feet, and has two windows. This is the superintendent's private office and contains no records. In general, the suite of the superintendent of schools provides ample accommodations for users of records. Drop-cord electric fixtures provide sufficient artificial light.

The main office of the superintendent of highways is located on the east side of the courthouse, and has only one window. Entrance from the hall leads into the office proper; a private office is set off from this office. There are 30 feet of shelving and file boxes, 13 inches deep, along the west and north walls in the office, where ninety percent of the records are stored. The private office contains five percent of the records. There is a map rack in the southwest corner and a filing cabinet in the southeast corner. Across the large central hall or lobby, on the west side of the courthouse, is a drafting room, which was reserved for use by the surveyor; original plans were to make this a probate courtroom. This room is exactly the same size as the other, but only 2 feet of shelving, out of the 100 feet provided for this purpose, are used at this time. The shelves are arranged along the north and west walls. About three percent of the records are stored here. In addition, one percent of the records is stored in the county clerk's first floor vault and the remaining one percent is in the east basement storage vault of the county clerk.

Twenty-five percent of the sheriff's records are stored in his office, thirty percent in an adjoining vault, and forty-five percent in the county clerk's east basement storage vault. The office, 15 feet by 22 feet, has 10 linear feet of shelving along the east wall. Three windows provide ample light and ventilation. The adjoining vault, 8 feet by 14 feet, has 12 linear feet of shelving along the east and west walls. It has no windows. Drop-cord electric light fixtures are used in all rooms.

The old age assistance office is the only one on the second floor which contains records. It is located behind the east stairway beside the supervisors' room and has an area of about 700 square feet. Metal file boxes, 28 inches in depth, arranged along the north wall, provide for all the records of this office. There are two windows for ventilation and natural light is supplemented by drop-cord electric light fixtures.

Though the state's attorney's office is also located on the second floor, none of the records are housed here. They are located in the circuit court clerk's vault on the first floor.

The coroner's office is in his residence at 400 Poplar Street, Carbondale, Illinois. The office is on the first floor and is 10 feet square. Here the coroner keeps practically all of his records; one volume only, the "Coroner's Death Record," is deposited in the county clerk's vault on the first floor of the courthouse.

Records of the county home are in the superintendent's office in his residence, about 50 yards from the county home, on Rural Auxiliary Route 4, Carbondale, Illinois. The office is a room about 10 feet square, with floor, walls, and ceiling all of wood. It is well lighted and ventilated but offers no room for expansion.

In closing, it may be stated that the orderly dignity and efficiency of the courthouse of Jackson County reflect the regard with which the citizens hold their government, as the courthouse is more than adequate for present needs and should prove so for some time. Careful provisions have been made and carried out for the proper care and maintenance of records. No unsightly bundles are observable in any of the offices or vaults. Improvements might be made in the basement storage vaults by eliminating dampness.

Excellent accommodations for consultants of records and research workers exist in every office and vault. It is claimed that no important records were destroyed by fire or flood. However, gaps do appear here and there, probably due to the fire of 1843. There are no records before 1823, and volumes of the commissioners' court records are missing between the years 1841-43. Binding and repairing of the volumes are under direct orders of the board of supervisors. In filing and indexing, the systems correspond in the main with those adopted by other counties in the state.

1. Despite inaccuracies in spelling and punctuation, titles of records are shown in the inventory proper exactly as on volumes and file boxes. The current or most recent title is used as the title of the entry.

2. Explanatory additions to inadequate titles and corrections of erroneous titles are enclosed in parentheses and have initial capitals.

3. In the absence of titles, supplied titles are capitalized and enclosed in parentheses.

4. In the title set-up, letters or numbers in parentheses indicate the exact labeling on volumes or file boxes. If the volumes or file boxes are unlabeled, no labeling is indicated.

5. Title line cross references are used to complete series for records kept separately for a period of time, and in other records for different periods of time. They are also used in all artificial entries - records which must be shown separately under their own proper office or section heading even though they are kept in files or records appearing elsewhere in the inventory. In both instances, the description of the master entry shows the title and entry number of the record from which the cross reference is made. Dates shown in the description of the master entry are only for the part or parts of the record contained therein, and are shown only when they vary from those of the master entry.

6. Separate third paragraph cross references from entry to entry, and "see also" references under subject headings, are used to show prior, subsequent, or related records which are not part of the same series.

7. Unless the index is self-contained, an entry for the index immediately follows its record entry. Cross references are given for exceptions to this rule.

8. Records may be assumed to be in good condition unless otherwise indicated.

9. On maps and plat records, the names of author, engraver, and publisher, and information on scale have been omitted only when these data were not ascertainable.

10. Unless otherwise specified, all records are located in the county courthouse.

I. COUNTY BOARD

In Illinois, the county board is that body which exercises the corporate or politic power of the county. In Jackson County since 1819¹ four bodies have successively acted as a county board: the county commissioners' court, the county court, the board of supervisors, and the board of county commissioners.

The Constitution of 1818 provided that there should be elected in each county, for the purpose of transacting all county business, three commissioners whose term of service, powers, and duties should be regulated and defined by law.² The first General Assembly denominated the commissioners a court of record, styled the county commissioners' court.³ Four annual sessions were required to be held for six days each, unless the business should be completed sooner; additionally, any one of the commissioners had power, upon giving five days' notice to the remaining commissioners and the clerk of the court, to call a special session which had the same authority as a regular session.⁴ The first commissioners were elected for an irregular term;⁵ subsequently, it was provided that they should be elected at each biennial general election;⁶ and in 1837, the term

1. Jackson County was created in 1816 when Illinois was still under territorial law (Territorial Laws 1815-16, p. 62). At that time, county affairs were administered by a county court consisting of three judges appointed and commissioned by the governor (Pope's digest, p. 346). This body possessed no judicial powers and was succeeded in 1818 by a "Justices' Court" composed of all the justices of the peace in the county, three of whom constituted a quorum to do business. The court held three terms annually and was granted the same powers and jurisdiction in cases relating to public roads and highways, county taxes, elections and other concerns of the county, formerly vested in the county court. The law also provided for the appointment, by the Governor, of a clerk whose duties included the recording of all decrees, judgments, and orders of the Justices' Court (Territorial Laws 1817-18, p. 90-2).

The commissioners were to continue in office from the election held on the following fourth Monday in April (1819) until the first Wednesday in August 1820, and until their successors were elected and qualified. Not until 1821 was provision made for the election of such successors (see footnote 6).

was lengthened to three years and staggered, with one new commissioner elected annually.¹ Thereafter, the commissioner who was longest in office was to be recognized as the presiding officer of the court.² Compensation, originally set at the sum of two and one-half dollars for each day's attendance in holding court,³ later was reduced to one and one-half dollars.⁴ In 1821 provision was made for the removal of commissioners for mal-feasance or non-feasance of duties, with proceedings as in criminal cases;⁵ when the first criminal code was enacted in 1827, the penalty was modified to a fine of not more than $200, with removal from office only upon recommendation of the jury.⁶ Vacancies resulting from any cause were filled by special election upon order of the clerk of the court to the district judges of election.⁷

In 1848 when the State of Illinois adopted a new constitution, the county commissioners' court was discontinued. In its place, the constitution provided for an administrative body to be composed of an elected officer, the county judge, and such number of justices of the peace as should be required by law.⁸ In the following legislative session, the General Assembly provided for the election of two justices of the peace to sit with the county judge to transact county business.⁹ Their term of office, like that of the county judge, was set at four years.¹⁰ This body, styled the county court, was required to hold four sessions annually and when so sitting, had all power, jurisdiction, and authority formerly conferred upon the county commissioners' court.¹¹ The compensation of the county judge was originally set at two and one-half dollars for every day of holding court.¹² In 1855 the amount was increased to three dollars.¹³

The new constitution also directed the General Assembly to provide, by general law, for a township organization under which any county might organize whenever a majority of the voters in the county should so determine.¹ By provision of the subsequent enabling acts,² a board of supervisors, whose members were to be elected one in each township annually,³ was created to transact all county business in counties adopting township organization.⁴ The board of supervisors was to meet for one regular session a year with the provision that special meetings might be held when convenient.⁵ The board members were compensated at the rate of two dollars a day,⁶ and a fine was provided in the sum of $250, for refusal to perform, or neglect of duties.⁷

For twenty-three years Jackson County was governed by a county court, not electing township organization until 1872. By that time Illinois had adopted a new constitution which, while continuing township organization, had provided for a different form of county board to supplant the county court as an administrative body.⁸ This board was to consist of three officers, styled county commissioners, elected for three-year terms from the county at large,⁹ and by subsequent legislation, was given all powers, jurisdiction, and authority formerly vested in the county court when acting in its administrative capacity.¹⁰ It was provided that the board hold five sessions annually, and that a chairman be elected at the first meeting. Special sessions could be called by the chairman or any two members of the board whenever the business of the county necessitated such action. After three years of township organization, Jackson County in 1875 changed to the commissioner form of government; abandoned it for township organization in 1878; reverted to the commissioner form in 1883; and in 1885, re-elected township organization, retaining that type of government ever since. Therefore, for a period of thirteen years, from 1872 to 1885, the administration of county affairs in Jackson County was vested alternately in a board of supervisors and a board of county commissioners. At present, the former body transacts the business of the county. Since 1874, population has been recognized as a factor in local representation on the board of supervisors. In that year, each town or city, besides its regular supervisor, became entitled to one assistant supervisor if it had four thousand or more inhabitants, two if sixty-five hundred, and one more for every additional twenty-five hundred.¹ The assistant supervisors, whose terms run concurrently with those of the regular supervisors,² have no power or duties as town officers, but are members of the county board and enjoy the same powers and rights as other members.³ The population requirements in this respect have since changed, but have not affected Jackson County.⁴ At present its board of supervisors has twenty-one members. The term of office of supervisors, lengthened in 1925 to two years,⁵ was further extended in 1931 to four years.⁶ Compensation was increased from two dollars to five dollars a day in 1919,⁷ lowered to four in 1933,⁸ and raised again to five in 1937,⁹ with an allowance of five cents per mile for necessary travel.

In contrast to the legal status of the county board, its functions have undergone little change since the beginning of statehood, the development being merely one of accretion and increasing complexity of duties within a well-defined and nearly static sphere of authority and jurisdiction. The law establishing the county commissioners' court conferred upon it jurisdiction in all matters concerning county revenue.¹⁰ Of this basic provision, nearly all other statutory powers of the court can be considered extensions; some, enunciated in the same law, already show such a legislative viewpoint. The court was given power to regulate and impose the county tax, and to grant such licenses as might also bring in a revenue; additionally, it was given authority over all public roads, canals, turnpike roads, and toll bridges.¹ Other legislation by the first General Assembly gave the court power to buy and sell lots whereon to erect county buildings and to contract for their construction;² later, in the case of the courthouse at least, the court was declared to have care and custody of the property and the right to make certain disposition of it.³ Care of the indigent was also made a function of the court; it was required to make appropriations, to be levied and collected in the same manner as other county revenue, for their support. As an extension of this fiscal function, it was required to appoint an overseer of the poor in every township and establish a county poorhouse if necessary.⁴ Fiscal control over school lands was exercised at first solely through the court's power of appointment of the trustees of school lands;⁵ after the creation of the office of county school commissioner,⁶ firmer control was effected through the medium of reports which the commissioner was required to submit to the court.⁷ By the terms of another early provision, a significant precursor of many similar ones to be found in more recent years, the court also had authority to examine the full accounts of the commissioner.⁸ Other aspects of government which, if farther removed from the fiscal core, come early into this jurisdictional sphere, are elections and juries. With regard to the former, the court was authorized to establish election precincts,⁹ appoint judges of election,¹⁰ and allow compensation to election officials for services and stationery.¹¹ Its duty with regard to juries was relatively simple; it was required to select two panels each of petit and grand jurors. The former were required to be enrolled on the list of taxable inhabitants; the latter, only to be freeholders or householders.¹² The court's early and brief jurisdiction over probate matters¹³ is not part of its history as a county board.

Two years later the differentiating figure was reduced to 90,000 (L.1933, p. 1116). Jackson County with its population of 35,680, according to the 1930 U.S. Census, was not affected at either time.

The substitution of the county court for the county commissioners' court produced no important changes in the sphere of government; neither the second constitution nor the enabling legislation made any original pronouncements with regard to the powers or duties of the former.

The revised law on township organization, in the main, only made more inclusive and definite the powers of the board.¹ The board was given capacity to purchase and hold any land within the county, for whatever purpose with only the requirement that it be for the use of the inhabitants; it was also given authority to make such contracts, and to purchase and hold such personal property as might be necessary to the exercise of its powers; moreover, it could make such orders for the disposition, regulation, or use of the corporate property as might seem to the interest of the inhabitants.² Explicit also, was the authority to audit all claims against the county, and the accounts of such officers as were not otherwise provided for by law.³ The board was also given power to appropriate funds for the construction of roads and bridges in any part of the county whenever a majority of the whole board might deem it proper and expedient; otherwise, the town highway commissioners had charge of the levying of road taxes.⁴

From the enabling legislation of the present constitutional period is drawn the following brief statement of the principal functions of the county board:

1. The purchase, sale, and custody of the real and personal property of the county.
2. Examining and settling accounts against the county.
3. Issuing orders on the county treasury in pursuance of its fiscal administration.
4. Examining accounts concerning the receipts and expenditures of county officers.
5. Supervision of elections, schools, and the selection of juries; construction and maintenance of roads and bridges; care of the indigent, infirm, and disabled.
6. Appropriating funds necessary to the effecting of its functions; raising such sums through taxation; and in general, the management of county funds and county business.⁵

At all times the county board has had a clerk who has served it in a ministerial capacity. The legal status of that officer, however, has varied considerably. The law creating the county commissioners' court provided that it should have a clerk, and gave it the power to appoint him.¹ In 1837 the clerk became an elective officer with a term of four years;² this was reduced to two years not long after.³ Bond was set by the original law in the sum of $1,000.⁴ The clerk had power to appoint deputies, for whose conduct he was responsible.⁵ The principal officer, however, could be removed by the county commissioners' court;⁶ which also fixed his compensation for attending court and could allow him additionally, as an ex-officio fee, a sum not exceeding twenty dollars.⁷

With the succession of the county commissioners' court by the county court, the office of clerk of the former body ceased to exist. A new office was created by statute, that of clerk of the county court, with term set at four years and bond in the sum of $3,000.⁸ When the court sat for the transaction of county business, its clerk was in effect a clerk of a county board; legal recognition of this distinction was given in the provision that the clerk should keep, in a separate set of books, the proceedings of the court when acting on county business, and in like manner segregate business papers from judicial.⁹ The adoption of township government by Jackson County did not alter the material situation; the clerk of the county court was required to act as the ministerial officer of the board of supervisors.¹⁰

In 1874, however, a new legal situation was created by the abolishment of a separate office of clerk of the county court and the establishment of the office of county clerk. The latter office had been created by constitutional proviso, which also made it elective with a term of four years.¹¹ By an act of the following General Assembly, it was provided that the county clerk should also be ex-officio clerk of the county court and act as clerk for the county board, in that capacity succeeding the former officer of the court.¹ Bond was required in a sum set by the county board, and covered the actions of the clerk in each of his several capacities.²

The major record kept by the clerk for the county board is the minutes of its proceedings. This heterogeneous record includes orders to issue warrants on the county treasury; the board's consideration of the action on reports of committees of its members on roads and bridges, indigent and infirm relief, schools, taxation, etc.; and its orders in regard to juries, licenses, and other matters within its jurisdiction.³

The clerk also keeps, separately, a register of orders issued on the county treasury and lists of jury venire; files and preserves all bills of accounts acted on by the board; and has custody of reports required to be made to the board by the county treasurer, various school bodies, and a number of county officers.⁴ An obligation to preserve a multiplicity of other records is clearly set forth in the general provision requiring the clerk to have the care and custody of all papers appertaining to, as well as filed in his office.⁵

II. COUNTY CLERK

Forerunner of the present county clerk was the clerk of the county commissioners' court. This court, was the county administrative body in Jackson County from 1819 to 1849.¹ The Constitution of 1848 and laws of 1849 created a new judicial branch of county government presided over by the county judge and entitled the "county court," and provided for the quadrennial election of a "clerk of the county court."² In addition to his duties as clerk of the judicial court, the incumbent was also to act as clerk of the administrative branch of government which consisted of the county judge and two justices of the peace sitting at special terms. In 1872 Jackson County adopted the township form of government necessitating the election of a board of supervisors to supplant the county court as the county administrative body.³ Accordingly, the clerk of the county court became ex-officio clerk of the board of supervisors.⁴

The above-mentioned clerks all performed the duties of county clerk as well as those of clerks of a judicial or administrative body. In fact, legislation frequently referred to these incumbents as "county clerks" when defining duties relating to county business as distinct from duties as clerks of judicial or administrative bodies. The Constitution of 1870 specifically provided for a county clerk who has continued to act to the present in this capacity, and also as clerk of the county board and clerk of the county and probate courts.⁵ The revised statutes of 1874 adopted the use of a distinction of titles for each of his ex-officio capacities, applying the title "county clerk" only when referring to his duties as such. It is the performance of these duties that gives rise to the records dealt with in this section.

The clerk was an appointee of the county commissioners' court from 1819 to 1837.⁶ In the latter year the office became elective for a four-year term;⁷ a two-year term became effective in 1847.⁸ A bond of $1,000 was set.¹ The clerk of the county court served a four-year term and was bonded in the sum of $3,000.² The Constitution of 1870 and the revised statutes of 1874, establishing the office of county clerk, provided for his election for a quadrennial term, and that the amount of his bond be set by the county board.³ The bond is entered upon the records of his office, and deposited with the clerk of the circuit court. He is required to take oath, and is commissioned by the Governor.⁴ The county seal is kept by the clerk and used by him when required.

 4. L.1849, p. 203; L.1851, p. 52; L.1861, p. 237. Although Jackson County abandoned township organization for five years (1875-78, 1883-85), electing to be governed during these two periods by a board of three commissioners, in accordance with a provision in the Constitution of 1870 (Art. X, sec. 6), this change in administrative body did not affect materially the status or duties of the county clerk.

In general, the county clerk's performance of his functions results in records relating to the following: taxation, vital statistics, licenses, and bonds. Various officials and agencies having authority over these matters report to, or deposit records with, the county clerk who in this manner acts as a coordinating factor in the execution of local and state affairs. In regard to other of these matters, the clerk is required to perform duties on his own behalf and retain the records resulting from such performance.

Illustrations of both of these procedures may be found by examining the various duties and records relating to taxation in counties under township organization. It is the duty of the county clerk to procure all books and blanks used in the assessment and collection of taxes, and to list in such books the lands and lots subject to taxation.⁵ These books are then turned over to the supervisor of assessments who has the township assessors enter the valuations against each piece of property listed. The supervisor completes revisions and corrections upon complaint of property owners, and returns the books in duplicate to the county clerk.⁶ Personal property assessments are handled in essentially the same manner. The board of review then makes adjustments on complaints and equalizes

5. L.1867, p. 106; L.1871-72, p. 19,32; L.1903, p. 297. During the period of the first constitution such books and lists were prepared by the auditor of public accounts and turned over to the clerk of the county commissioners' court (L.1825, p. 173; R.L.1827, p. 329; L.1839, p. 3,4; L.1847, p. 79).

6. The first assessment officer was the county treasurer (L.1819, p. 315; R.L.1827, p. 328-36). In 1839 this function was performed by the district assessors who received from the county clerk copies of the auditor's transcripts (L.1839, p. 3,4). The treasurer resumed these duties in 1844 (L.1843, p. 251), retaining them until the adoption of the township organization in 1872 saw the township assessors acting in each township (L.1849, p. 192). The treasurer now acts as ex-officio supervisor of assessments (L.1898, p. 36-44).

assessments between districts, certifying corrections and revisions to the county clerk.¹ The county clerk then reports the entire assessment list to the state tax commission for equalization, the equalized list then being used by the county clerk in ascertaining tax rates and extending taxes.²

The state tax commission also certifies to the county clerk the assessments of the capital stock of corporations and railroad and telegraph companies, it being the duty of the clerk to extend these taxes and retain the books after use by the collector.³

The books are next turned over to the county collector who, after collection, returns lists of collections, together with lists of uncollected real and personal property taxes.⁴ The county clerk attends all tax sales, prepares a list of all sales and issues duplicate reports thereof, records affidavits of purchases of property for taxes, and keeps a record known as the "tax judgment, sale, redemption, and forfeiture record."⁵

An extensive group of vital statistics records is kept by the county clerk, including records relating to births and deaths, marriages, physicians, and midwives. It is interesting to note that the first legislation in regard to the keeping of vital statistics was included in the act for the establishment of medical societies.⁶ One section of this act made it the duty of every physician to keep a record of births, deaths, and diseases occurring within the vicinity of his practice, and to transmit such record to his medical society, whereupon the record was to be published in the newspapers. In 1842 it was provided that a parent could appear before the clerk of the county commissioners' court and make affidavit as to the birth of a child, and the eldest next of kin of a deceased person could similarly appear and make affidavit as to death.⁷ It is probable that the tenor of the above mentioned laws explains the fact that no birth or death records exist in Jackson County prior to 1877, the first law, 1819, requiring no public record to be kept, and the 1842 law providing that affidavits "may" be made. The act of 1877 creating the state board of health required that all births and deaths in the county be reported to the county clerk by the physicians and accoucheurs supervising such events.⁸ Teeth were put into this and subsequent laws by providing penalties for non-compliance. In 1901 death certificates issued by physicians, midwives, or coroners, were to be presented to town clerks who issued burial permits and forwarded the certificates to the county clerk.¹ In 1903 certificates of death were to be turned over to the state board of health, which board, in turn, delivered to the county clerk all certificates so received.² In 1915 it was provided that for the registration of all births, stillbirths, and deaths outside any city, village, or incorporated town, the township clerks in counties under township organization, or the road district clerks in counties under the commissioner form of government, deposit a complete set of such records with the county clerk who was charged with the binding and indexing, or recording, and safe-keeping of such records.³ From the earliest date the legislation in regard to these matters provided that the clerk retain the abstracts and certificates, keep a record of births and deaths, maintain alphabetical indexes, and issue certified copies of certificates upon request. The clerk has also been required to prepare a register of all physicians and accoucheurs in the county.⁴

From 1819 the county clerk, or clerk of the county commissioners' court, has been required to file marriage certificates and certificates of parents' consent to the marriage of minors.⁵ In 1827 the clerk was required to keep a separate register of marriages in addition to his file of certificates.⁶ Before 1877 persons desiring to marry were required to secure licenses from the county clerk only when they had not previously published such intention, but in that year the securing of a license was made mandatory.⁷ Although a record of applications for marriage licenses has been kept by the clerk in this county since 1882, an act of 1937 appears to be the first legislation requiring the maintenance of such a record.⁸ The same act provides that persons desiring to marry shall present to the county clerk a certificate setting forth that such person is free from venereal diseases, such certificates to be filed with the application for license to marry.⁹ Indexes to marriage records have been kept in Jackson County since 1878.

The county clerk is charged with a number of duties relating to elections, such as preparing and issuing blank ballots, poll books, and certificates of election, and keeping a record of registers of elections, petitions, marked ballots, tally sheets, and election returns which are transmitted to him by the judges of election.¹ Abstracts of returns were formerly prepared by the clerk, but these are now originated by the election commissioners or judges of election and deposited with the clerk. Returned ballots are destroyed by the clerk six months after election, provided no contest in which the ballots are needed is in progress.² In 1889, when returns of elections for school trustees were made to the county clerk in counties under township organization, he was charged with furnishing to the county superintendent of schools a list of all such trustees.³ Now the clerk does not enter into the procedure, the school trustees canvassing the returns and certifying directly to the superintendent of schools.⁴

The bonds of a number of officials are required to be transmitted to the clerk to be filed and entered in a book maintained for that purpose.⁵ Justices' of the peace and constables' oaths, bonds, and securities are approved by the clerk and entered in a separate book in accordance with statutory requirement. This book shows the date on which each justice of the peace and constable was sworn into office and the date of commission by the Governor. Resignations in these offices are made to the county clerk who enters such fact in the justices' and constables' record.⁶

The clerk is also charged with issuing licenses to peddlers, taverns, ferries, etc., and keeping records of the same.⁷ Other records kept are those relating to estrays; registers of professionals, including physicians, midwives, optometrists, dentists, chiropodists, and veterinarians; 8 list of county officers; list of town officers which is furnished annually by the town clerk;⁹ record of notaries public;¹⁰ and book of state civil service rules.¹¹ Referring to his list of town officers, the county clerk in counties under township organization reports annually to the state department of public health the names and addresses of the supervisor, assessor, and clerk of each township, and the dates of expiration of their terms of office. In counties otherwise organized, he reports to the state department the same information with regard to each county commissioner.¹

Included in the provision that the county clerk be charged with the care and custody of all records, books, and papers appertaining to and filed or deposited in his office² are those duties as clerk of the county board, wherein he is required to record the proceedings of the board and to file all their books, records, and accounts.³ Also included are his record-keeping duties as ex-officio clerk of the county court with its resulting duties in relation to probate matters.⁴ The clerk is also required to keep jury lists⁵ and a book in which he enters details as to orders upon the treasurer. He is further required to maintain alphabetical indexes of all records and papers in his office, and to supply copies to any person upon request and payment of the required fee.⁶

The county clerk also acts as ex-officio clerk of the special drainage district.⁷

III. RECORDER

The recorder of Jackson County was originally appointed by the Governor with the advice and consent of the senate.¹ His bond, set at $1,500, was to be filed with the secretary of state. In 1829 the amount of bond was reduced to $500.² The office became elective in 1835, for a four-year term, and a bond was to be approved by the county commissioners' court.³ The term was reduced to two years in 1845.⁴ With the adoption of the second constitution the office of recorder was abolished, the duties of that office being delegated to the circuit court clerk in an ex-officio capacity.⁵ The present constitution reestablished the office of recorder in counties having a population of 60,000 or more but continued the provision of the prior constitution for other counties.⁶ The population of Jackson County never having reached the minimum set by the Constitution,⁷ the circuit court clerk has retained his ex-officio duties as recorder. The amount of the recorder's bond was set at $5,000 in 1872, and the county judge was to give approval.⁸ This amount was raised in 1874 to $10,000 for counties having the population of Jackson.⁹ A copy of the bond is entered upon the records of the county clerk.

Assistants and deputies are appointed by the recorder in a number as determined by rule of the circuit court and as entered upon the court record.¹ The compensation of the assistants and deputies is set by the county board. Written oaths of deputies are filed with the secretary of state.²

In accordance with the duty of the recorder to record at length all written instruments, the following records are required to be kept:

1. An entry book in which data relating to date and order of receipt of instruments to be recorded or filed, and the names of parties and location of property, with a brief description of the premises, are entered. Each of such instruments is numbered by the recorder with the corresponding number of the entry. The entry book serves as a table of contents, with descriptive memoranda, for all instruments recorded at length or filed in the recorder's office.
2. Well-bound books for recording at length any instrument in writing entitled to be recorded, in the order of time of its reception. Separate books are allowed to be kept for the recording of different classes of instruments and two distinct series of document numbers may be used for recording documents received to be recorded. One series preceded by the letter "B" is for the recordation of bills of sales of personal property, chattel mortgages, releases, extensions, and assignments thereof. The other series of document numbers is for all other instruments received for recordation.
3. Grantors' and grantees' indexes. In the grantors' index are recorded the name of the grantor in alphabetical order and the name of the grantee. The grantees' index shows the name of the grantee in alphabetical order and the name of the grantor. Each index also shows the date of the instrument, time of receipts, kind of instrument, consideration, book and page in which it is recorded, or the number under which it is filed, and a brief description of the premises.
4. Indexes to each book of record in which are entered in alphabetical order, the name of each grantor and grantee and page in which the instrument is recorded.

1. Constitution of 1870, Art. X, sec. 9; R.S.1874, p. 833.

2. R.S.1874, p. 833.

This series indexes instruments such as powers of attorney, chattel mortgages, and those recorded by corporations.

5. An index to recorded maps and plats, based on location of property. Sometimes arranged by section, township, and range.
6. An abstract book, in effect indexing records by showing for each tract every conveyance or incumbrance recorded, its execution and filing date, and the book and page of its recordation. Series optional with county board.
7. A separate book to record certificates of honorable discharge from military, aviation, and naval services.¹

The recorder, in recording at length any instrument in writing, is permitted to make a handwritten or typewritten transcription of the same, or he may make photographic or photostatic reproduction, or he may use a combination of these methods of recordation.² In addition to the instruments received for recordation, the recorder is required upon receipt to file any instrument such as any mortgage, trust deed, or conveyance of personal property having the effect of a mortgage or lien upon such property which is endorsed with the words, "This instrument to be filed, but not recorded." The recorder marks such instrument "filed" and enters the time of receipt and files the same in his office.³

IV. COUNTY COURT

The county court serves as the judicial branch of county government. This court is administered by the county judge who is elected for a four-year term by the county electorate. Before entering upon the duties of his office, the county judge is required to take and subscribe to an oath which he files with the secretary of state. The compensation of the Jackson County judge was originally set at two dollars and fifty cents per diem for holding court, which was paid quarterly out of the county treasury.¹ Today, the judge in this county receives $3,240 per annum.² The court hears and determines matters in which it has original or concurrent jurisdiction, including appeals from the justices of the peace and police magistrates.³

The powers of the judiciary in Jackson were originally administered only by the justices of the peace,⁴ magistrates,⁵ the probate judge,⁶ and the circuit court.⁷ Later, a civil and criminal court with jurisdiction coextensive with the county lines, was established under the provisions of the Constitution of 1848 and the legislation of 1849.¹ The court created was the county court. This unit of county government was established with a partial reversion to the dual, administrative and judicial, function of the local judiciary in Illinois under the Territorial Laws prior to 1818. The court was different from the territorial courts in that its composition varied for each of the two functions. The judicial court was administered by the county judge, who was elected by the county electorate and commissioned by the Governor. His original four-year tenure of office has remained effective to the present day.² As the administrative body, the court was made up of the county judge and two justices of the peace.³

Under the second constitution complete separation of county business powers from the judicial could be had with the acceptance by the county electorate of an independent administrative body, the board of supervisors, established under township organization. This plan of government was not selected immediately, and Jackson was governed by the dual county court until 1872 when the county board of supervisors became successor to the county court in its jurisdiction over county affairs and business. From that date on, the county court has served only as a judicial court in Jackson County.

The county court as established in 1849 was vested with the same civil and criminal jurisdiction as the justices of the peace. The county judge was made conservator of the peace for the county. He was given the same power and authority as the circuit court in preserving order in the court and punishing contempts offered the court while in session.⁴ Suits for sale of delinquent lands for taxes of 1848, and prior years, could be brought and presented in either the circuit or county court, but for taxes of subsequent years, the county court was given exclusive original jurisdiction.⁵ The court also exercised jurisdiction equal with that of the circuit court over naturalization.⁶

In addition to its civil and criminal jurisdiction, the court was vested with all the powers and jurisdiction in probate matters which were vested prior to this date in the court of the probate justice. The court was given concurrent jurisdiction with the circuit court in hearing and determining applications for the sale of real estate of deceased persons and for the payment of debts for the estate.⁷ In Jackson County the county judge has served to the present day in his ex-officio capacity as judge of the probate court.

The law jurisdiction of the county court in Jackson County from 1874 to the present has been concurrent with that of the circuit court in that class of cases, first, wherein the justices of the peace have jurisdiction where the value of the amount in controversy does not exceed $1,000;¹ second, in all cases of appeals from justices of the peace and police magistrates; third, in all criminal offenses and misdemeanors where the punishment is not imprisonment in the penitentiary or death.² The county court also has original jurisdiction in matters relating to indigent mothers,³ jurisdiction over the persons of insane persons not charged with crime, and authority to appoint a conservator for the estates of insane persons.⁴ This authority was formerly vested in the circuit court.⁵

In Jackson County the county and circuit courts have original jurisdiction in juvenile court matters. This jurisdiction is over matters dealing with dependent, neglected, and delinquent children. The authority includes provision for the treatment, control, maintenance, adoption, and guardianship of such children.⁶

In this class of cases the juvenile probation officer functions as an assistant of the county court in the administration of justice. Provision was first made for a probation officer under the laws of 1899. This legislation provided for the appointment of probation officers by the court to serve without compensation from the public treasury and at the pleasure of the court.⁷ In 1907 this provision was changed and the probation officer was compensated at a rate fixed by the court not in excess of the statutory limitation. Today in Jackson County the rate of compensation is set at not less than $100 a month.⁸ If more than one juvenile probation officer is appointed, one is designated the chief probation officer, who is to have one year's active experience in social welfare work.

1. Under the laws of 1872 the jurisdiction was in cases not exceeding $500. The revised statutes of 1874 and subsequent legislation extended the jurisdiction to cases wherein the amount involved was not over $1,000 (L.1933, p. 449,452). An amendment to the act of 1874 was passed on May 3, 1933, which extended the jurisdiction to $2,000, and a later amendment in the same session, passed June 21, 1933, placed the jurisdiction in cases where the amount involved is not over $1,000.

The officer under consideration makes investigation on order of the court and takes charge of the child before and after trial. He is required to be present at the court hearings in order that he may represent the interest of the child. This officer also furnishes information and assistance as required by the court.

Upon petition filed with the clerk of the court for the removal of a neglected or dependent child from the custody of its parent(s) or guardian, process is issued for appearance. The summons may be served by the sheriff or the duly-appointed probation officer.

At any time after the filing of the petition and pending the final disposition, the court may allow the child to remain in the possession of its custodian or in its home subject to the visitation of the probation officer; or the child may be ordered in custody of the probation officer.¹ If upon hearing the case the court finds the child to be dependent or neglected, the court may commit the child to an association or institution or allow the child to remain in his home subject to the visitation of the probation officer.² In a similar fashion the probation officer for adults, an appointee of the circuit court, assists the county court in the administration of justice among adult violators.

In cases of delinquency, if the court finds any child to be delinquent, the court may commit the child to an institution or to the custody of the probation officer. The court may, upon its discretion, send juvenile offenders and vagrants to the state reform school rather than the county jail.³ Appeals may be taken in any of these classes of juvenile cases to the circuit court.⁴

Another probation officer, also an appointee of the county court, assists the court in mothers' pension cases. The state and county funds for indigent mothers and their children are administered by the county court, its appointed probation officer(s), the county board with the assistance of the county clerk, the county treasurer, and the state department of public welfare. The county court, however, is given original jurisdiction in these matters.⁵

A mother whose husband is dead or incapacitated, or who is abandoned by her husband, is entitled to the benefits of the mothers' pension fund. Such mother in need may file an application with the county court for relief. The case of the applicant is then investigated by the probation officer under the direction of the court.

A report and recommendation of the approval or disapproval of such application is then made by this officer to the court. If the application is approved, the probation officer or other person may file with the clerk of the court a written petition verified by affidavit setting forth the facts giving the court jurisdiction and other facts upon which an order for relief is entered. Upon receipt of the petition, a summons is issued to the mother and the county board for appearance. The usual procedure is for the board to make a written appearance. Upon the hearing in court, the court may make an order upon the county board to pay monthly such money as may be necessary for the care of the mother and her child or children in accordance with the provisions of law.

To carry out this procedure, the county court appoints the probation officer who serves during the pleasure of the court and is compensated for his services by the county board. As noted above, this officer investigates all applications for relief and makes a written report to the court. In addition to this duty, the probation officer makes quarterly visits and supervises, under the direction of the court, the families to which such assistance has been granted.¹ The rate of compensation is set by the county board.

The county board annually levies a tax on all taxable property to provide for the mothers' pension fund. The levy is made not in excess of two-fifths of one mill on a dollar in Jackson County.² Also the General Assembly makes appropriations from time to time to the state department of public welfare which are distributed to the several counties as a part of the pension fund. To become entitled to the state appropriations, the county must meet the standards of administration set by the state agency. The county treasurer certifies to the state department an itemized statement, attested by the county clerk, of the money paid out in accordance with the legislative provisions for this pension beginning July 1, 1935, and also the total assessment and levy, beginning as of this period, for this purpose.³

Jurisdiction in the election procedure is vested variously in the county board, the county court, and the county clerk. The Jackson county court performs an important function in this procedure. In each city, village, and incorporated town adopting the act regulating elections in such political units, there is a board of election commissioners composed of three appointees of the county court who serve alternately for three-year terms.⁴ The election boards have authority and are charged with the organization of election districts and precincts, the appointment of judges and clerks of election, provision for election ballots, and the application of the rules and regulations for permanent registration and elections.¹ Otherwise, jurisdiction is vested in the county board, county court, and county clerk. The county court has original jurisdiction in election contests for certain county, district, and township offices.²

The county officers electoral board aids in questions arising in the course of the election procedure. This body consists of the county judge, who is chairman of the board, the county clerk, and the state's attorney.³

The several nomination papers for county offices are filed with the county clerk and are considered valid unless objections are made within five days after the last day for filing such papers. Objections to nominations are made to the county officers electoral board for any office of the county, park district, or other division coterminous with or less than the county and other than a city, village, incorporated town, or township.⁴ The objector's petition is filed with the county clerk who presents the same together with the nomination papers or certificate before the electoral board.⁵ The petition contains the objector's name, residence, the nature of the objection, the interest of the objector, and the relief sought of the board.⁶ A notice of the hearing is sent to the candidate. Upon hearing of the objections, the majority decision of the board is final. In the event one of the members of the board is a candidate to the office objected to, then the circuit judge is required to fill his place on the board.⁷

Under an act of 1933, housing corporations may be organized in Illinois for the express purpose of improving housing conditions.⁸ Such corporations are subject to the supervision and control of the state housing board. This state agency has authority, after investigations and public hearings, to approve the acquisition of property and construction of housing projects. If the state housing board approves a project over the objections of ten percent of the property owners within a mile, but not included in the project, it must then file an application with the clerk of the county court to be submitted to the county judge for the confirmation of its approval. Such application is to contain copies of the finding and order of the board, transcript of testimony, description of the project and public spaces, statement of location, and reasons of approval by the board. The objectors to the project may file objections to the confirmation of such a project. The county judge then examines the application, objections, and any additional evidence before rendering a decision of "approval" or "not approval" of the application.¹

Appeals from the judgments and decisions of the county court may be taken to the circuit court.² To the appellate court or supreme court may be taken the prosecuted appeals and writs of error in proceedings for the sale of lands for taxes and special assessments, and in all common law and attachment cases, and cases of forcible detainer, and forcible entry and detainer. Such appeals and writs of error are, when not otherwise provided, taken and prosecuted in the same manner as appeals and writs of error from the circuit court.³

The records of the county court are kept by its clerk. In Jackson County the county clerk is ex-officio clerk of the county court. In addition to the statutory records described below the clerk necessarily maintains others in effecting the court's orders.⁴

For the court, the clerk keeps the following records:

1. Books of records of the proceedings and judgments of the court with alphabetical indexes by names of parties. Proceedings are recorded at length only in cases designated by law or when the court, at the motion and assumption of expenses by one of the parties, so orders. In practice, the court record has been broken down from an early date into segregated types of proceedings and judgments.
2. "Plaintiff-Defendant Index to Court Records" and "Defendant-Plaintiff Index to Court Records", intended to be separate records, but frequently combined in a single volume with the two indexes segregated in each volume.
3. A general docket in which all suits are entered in the order they are commenced.
4. A judgment and execution docket containing a column for the entry of satisfaction or other disposition. In practice, an execution docket is frequently set up independently.

5. Additional dockets, designated as the clerk's, judge's, and bar docket. In practice, the bar docket has tended to drop out of use.¹
6. A fee book in which costs and fees are to be entered under the proper title of the cause. In practice, separate series of volumes are maintained under these titles of causes.
7. Transcripts of proceedings in appeals from justices' courts, dockets thereof, and transcripts of judgment for liens, etc., from justices' courts.
8. Naturalization records including petitions, proceedings, final certificates, etc. The county courts in Illinois prior to 1906 met the requirement of Federal Statutes to exercise naturalization jurisdiction.²
9. Original documents used in court hearings and determinations; of particular importance in the large number of cases where complete proceedings are not spread on court record.³
10. Monthly reports of the warden of the county jail containing a list of all prisoners in his custody and showing the cause of commitment and persons by whom committed.⁴

V. PROBATE COURT

In Jackson County, a separate probate court is not maintained, the function of this court being delegated to the county court. The county court has original jurisdiction in all matters of probate, the settlement of estates of deceased persons, the appointment of guardians and conservators and settlement of their accounts; matters relating to apprentices; proceedings by executors and administrators for sale of real estate; proceedings for the collection of taxes and special assessments of property in probate.¹ The court has power to impanel a jury for the trial of issues or matters of fact in any of these proceedings before it.²

Jurisdiction in probate matters in Jackson County was first exercised by the county commissioners' court.³ In 1821 a separate probate court was established; its incumbent, the judge of the probate court, was an elected officer of the General Assembly and held office during good behavior.⁴ The next incumbent was the probate justice, an elected officer of the county electorate.⁵ The justice's tenure of office was four years until 1845 when it was reduced to two years.⁶ Twelve years after the first election of the probate justice by the county electorate, the jurisdiction of the probate court was transferred to the newly-created county court which was established in 1849.⁷ The Jackson county court has retained probate jurisdiction from 1849 to the present.⁸

Aiding the court in its jurisdiction over the administration of intestate estates and the guardianship of minors, are the public administrator and the public guardian. Each officer is appointed quadrennially by the Governor with the advice and consent of the senate. The public administrator and public guardian are required to enter into bonds set and approved by the court in sums not less than $5,000.⁹ Their duties are performed under the direction and orders of the court. The records that result from their prescribed duties appear among the records of the court with those of other administrators, executors, and guardians.

When there is no relative or creditor who will administer an intestate estate, the court commits the administration to the public administrator upon application of any person interested in the deceased estate.¹⁰ If a widow or next of kin, or creditor of the deceased, appears within six months after the administration is granted to the public administrator, the court then revokes its grant of administration to the public administrator and orders letters of administration granted to such person interested in the estate. If, after all debts and charges against the estate which have been presented within two years after the administration of the estate was committed to such public administrator are fully paid, and any balance of intestate estate remains, the administrator causes a notice to be published requiring persons still having claims against the estate to present them to the county court within six months. If no such claim is presented upon the expiration of the six-month period, the balance is paid into the county treasury, the county remaining answerable to any future claims.¹

As already noted, the court has authority to appoint guardians of minor heirs of deceased persons.² In cases where the minor is under fourteen years of age the court appoints his guardian. When the minor is over fourteen he may nominate his own guardian, subject to the approval of the court.³ Under the direction of the court, the guardian is responsible for the custody, nurture, and tuition of his ward, and the care and management of his estate. The court may assign the guardianship of the estate to one guardian and the custody and tuition to another.⁴ Within sixty days after his appointment, the guardian returns to the court a complete inventory of the real and personal estate of the ward in the form prescribed by law.⁵ At the end of the first year of his appointment, and every three years thereafter, he makes a settlement of his accounts. When his trust is completed or upon the death of the ward, the guardian makes final settlement and delivers over to persons entitled, the property and papers in his hands as guardian.⁶ Upon failure of a guardian appointed by the court to act within three months in this capacity, the court commits the guardianship of the minor to the public guardian.⁷ The latter's records appear with those of other guardians.

The clerk of the county commissioners' court from 1819 to 1821, the early probate judge, 1821 to 1837, and the probate justice, 1837 to 1849, each performed the ministerial function of the probate clerk.⁸ With the creation of the county court in 1849, until the present, the county clerk has served as ex-officio probate clerk.⁹

The clerk is required to attend the sessions of the court, issue all process, preserve all the files and pages thereof, make, keep, and preserve complete records of all the proceedings and determinations, do and perform all other duties pertaining to his office as required by law or the rules and orders of his court, and enter of record all judgments, decrees, and orders of the court.¹

The major records of the probate court, which are kept by the clerk are the following:

1. Journal of all judicial proceedings and determinations of the judge.
2. A judgment docket with a direct and an indirect index; former by name of claimant against estate, latter by estate. In practice, the requirement of two indexes often leads to two dockets.
3. Books for recordation of bonds and letters of administrators, executors, guardians, and conservators; appraisement and sale bills; widows' relinquishment and selection of property; wills and the probate thereof; annual and final reports of administrators, executors, guardians, and conservators. Generally each category of these probate business matters is recorded separately, but the segregation is not always carefully maintained.
4. Separate dockets of unsettled estates and claims against estates, and a ledger of the accounts of executors, administrators, and guardians. Note that the dockets of probate business matters are separated from dockets of court proceedings, just as are the books of recordation of the two categories; the intention of the law to make this distinction is further shown in its granting the clerk, during vacation of the court, power to receive petitions, accept bonds, grant letters testamentary, etc.
5. Files of original documents not subject to recordation; indexes of such; records of office transactions in pursuance of the court's orders to the clerk necessary in the latter's settlement with that body.²

VI. CIRCUIT COURT

The circuit court has original jurisdiction of all causes of law and equity and acts as a court of appeals in probate matters and causes cognizable by the county court and justices of the peace.¹ In addition, it is one of the courts capable of having naturalization jurisdiction according to Federal Statutes.²

Originally, the circuit court was held in Jackson County by justices of the supreme court.³ Later, provision was made for the appointment, by both branches of the General Assembly, of separate circuit court judges to hold office during good behavior.⁴ An act of 1827 repealed this provision and provided that circuit courts again be held by supreme court justices.⁵ In 1835 the judiciary was reorganized and a circuit judge was appointed by the General Assembly for the district serving Jackson County. All of the laws requiring supreme court justices to hold circuit courts were repealed by this legislation.⁶ The new plan of organization was tenable for a brief period of six years, for in 1841 additional associate justices of the supreme court were elected by joint ballot of the General Assembly, which justices, together with the other justices of the supreme court, held the circuit courts.⁷ Then in 1849 another change was made in the circuit court. This latter change was made in accordance with the second constitution which provided for the election of circuit judges by the judicial district electorate.⁸ The Constitution of 1870 altered the circuit districts and established population requirements for counties that may comprise a circuit.⁹ From 1849 to the present the circuit judges have been elective officers of the judicial district electorate. The first circuit is made up of nine counties, one of which is Jackson.¹⁰

Three circuit judges are elected for the district to serve for six-year terms.¹ Before entering upon the duties of his office, each circuit judge is required to subscribe to an oath which he files with the secretary of state. Those elected after the first Monday of June 1933, receive a salary of $7,200 which is paid out of the state treasury.²

The hearings of several of the election contests are held before this court. Jurisdiction is granted to the court to hear and determine contests of the election of judges of the supreme court, judges of the circuit court, and members of the state board of equalization, but no judge of the circuit court is allowed to sit upon the hearing of any case in which he is a party.³ Also, the circuit court hears and determines the election contests of some of the local and county offices. These include contests of judge of the county court, mayors of cities, president of the county board, presidents of villages, elections in reference to removal of county seats and in reference to any other subject which may be submitted to the vote of the people of the county, and concurrent jurisdiction with the county court in cases of contested elections under its jurisdiction.⁴

Included under the jurisdiction of the circuit court are also appeals from the Illinois Commerce Commission's rules, regulations, orders, or decisions. Such appeals may be taken to the circuit court serving Jackson County when the subject matter of the hearing is situated in this county. The appeal may be heard for the purpose of having the reasonableness or lawfulness of the rule, regulation, order, or decision inquired into and determined.⁵

To make possible the handling of much litigation, a branch circuit court may be held at the same time that the main or regular circuit court for Jackson County is in session. A branch court is held by any circuit judge or by an judge of any other circuit called in for the purpose of hearing and deciding motions and settling the issues in any or all causes pending in the circuit court, and for the purpose of hearing chancery

 2. L.1933, p. 621; L.1937, p. 189,606. In 1835 the salary of the circuit judge was $750 per annum (L.1835, p. 167). The Constitution of 1870 set the salary at $3,000 until otherwise provided by law (Constitution of 1870, Art. VI, sec. 16). A few of the recent changes were: from 1919 to 1925 for judges elected during this period, $6,500; for the period 1925 to 1933, those elected received $8,000 per year (L.1919, p. 553,554; L.1925, p. 400; L.1931, p. 148).

causes and cases at law which are pending in such court for that term. The presiding judge of the main circuit court assigns to the branch court as many of the law and chancery cases as the presiding judge of the branch court will possibly have time to hear.¹

Also, to aid in the speedy administration of justice, the judges or a majority of them, may by an order entered of record in the office of the clerk of the circuit court, dispense with either or both the grand and petit juries for any term or part of term of the circuit court, and may designate what term(s) or part(s) thereof shall be devoted to criminal business, and what term(s) or part(s) thereof to civil business.²

Each of the three judges of the circuit court is authorized to appoint one official shorthand reporter. This appointee is required to be skilled in verbatim reporting and is not allowed to hold more than one such official appointment. The appointment is in writing and is required to be filed in the office of the auditor of public accounts. The reporter holds office until his appointment is revoked by the appointing judge or the termination of the judge's term. When the official reporter is absent or disabled, the presiding judge may appoint any other competent reporter to act during such absence or disability. The substitute is paid by the official reporter for his services. The reporter causes full stenographic notes of the evidence in all trials before the court to be taken down and transcript of the same to be correctly made if desired by either party of the suit, by their attorney or by the judge of the court. Each of the reporters receives and is paid out of the state treasury an annual salary of $3,240. The salaries are paid out monthly on the warrant of the auditor of public accounts.³

The probation officer for adult probationers is an appointee of the circuit court.⁴ His services extend throughout the county. Courts exercising criminal or quasi-criminal jurisdiction are given power to deal with adult or juvenile offenders of specified offenses under the provision of this act.⁵ In the performance of his prescribed duties, the probation officer principally serves the county and circuit courts. He is required to give bond as determined by the circuit court in a sum not exceeding $5,000 and is subject to the rules and removal of the appointing court.⁶ Jackson County is allowed one probation officer under the allowance of one for each 50,000, or fraction thereof, of population.⁷

The probation officer is compensated at a rate determined by the county board. In the performance of his duties, he is required to investigate the case of defendants requesting probation; notify the court of previous conviction or probation; make reports to the respective courts; keep a set of records as described below; take charge of and watch over all persons placed on probation, and cases of probationers moving from another county into his county.¹

The reports made by the probation officer to the courts are kept by the clerk in the respective cases. The courts' probation records include orders granting or refusing release on probation, probationers' bonds, the reports of probation officers noted above, and discharge of probationers.

The probation officer is required to keep complete accurate records of investigated cases, including descriptions of the investigated persons, the action of the court, and the subsequent history of probationers. These are records open to inspection by any judge or by any probation officer pursuant to a court order and are not public records.²

Unlike the judges of the circuit court who are elected by the judicial district electorate, the clerk of this court is elected by the county electorate.³ This official performs the ministerial duties of the circuit court of Jackson County and files and preserves its records as well as those of the branch circuit courts.⁴ He is commissioned by the Governor and before entering upon the duties of his office, gives bond with sureties which are approved by any two of the judges of the court. His bond is given in the sum of not less than $5,000 and agreed upon by the judges. The oath to which he subscribes is filed with the secretary of state.⁵ If a vacancy occurs in this office and the unexpired term does not exceed one year, the court is required to fill such vacancy by appointment of a clerk pro tempore. The appointee is then required to qualify for office in the same manner as the clerk of the circuit court. When the appointment is made, the court notifies the Governor of the filled vacancy. The Governor in turn, as soon as practicable, issues a writ of election for the circuit court clerk.⁶

The clerk of the circuit court was first appointed by the circuit court in Jackson County.¹ He kept a record of all the oaths that he administered and certified a copy annually to the secretary of state.² The clerk preserved a complete record of all proceedings and determinations of the court of which he was clerk.³ At each term of the circuit court, the clerk inquired into the condition of the treatment of prisoners and was required to see that all prisoners were humanely treated.⁴ This authority was in later years, and is at present, delegated to the circuit court.⁵ One of the early requisites of this office was for the clerk of the circuit court to reside near the county seat in order that he could attend to his duties daily. In the event that it were not possible for him to be in daily attendance, the presiding judge and the county commissioners' court were to fill such vacancy. The Constitution of 1848 made the clerk of the circuit court an elective officer of the county electorate with a four-year term. This arrangement has continued until the present.⁶

The clerk is able to perform the several duties of his office with the aid of his staff which consists of assistants and deputy clerks who are appointed by him in a number determined by rule of the circuit court.⁷ This order is entered as of record and the compensation of such assistants and deputies is set by the county board.⁸

Among the records kept by the clerk for the circuit court are the following:⁹

1. Books of record of the proceedings and judgments of the court with alphabetical indexes by parties. Proceedings are recorded at length only in cases designated by law, or when the court at the motion and assumption of expense by one of the parties, so orders. In practice, the court record has been broken down from an early date into segregated types of proceedings and judgments.

2. "Plaintiff-Defendant Index to Court Records" and "Defendant-Plaintiff Index to Court Records," intended to be separate records, but frequently combined in a single volume with the two indexes segregated in each volume.
3. A general docket in which all suits are entered in the order they are commenced.
4. A judgment and execution docket containing a column for the entry of satisfaction or other disposition. In practice, an execution docket is frequently set up independently.
5. Additional dockets, designated as the clerk's, judge's and bar docket. In practice, the bar docket has tended to drop out of use.
6. A fee book in which costs and fees are to be entered under the proper title of the case. In practice, separate series of volumes are maintained under such titles of causes.
7. Transcripts of proceedings in appeals from justices', city, and foreign courts, dockets thereof, and transcripts of judgment for liens, etc., from the former. Separate well-bound books are required to be kept for each city court which are to contain an alphabetical docket of all judgment decrees rendered in the city court. The books also provide entries of data relating to the filing of the transcript with the corresponding number of the transcript.¹
8. Naturalization proceedings from petitions to final certificates; Federal Statutes allow the circuit court to exercise jurisdiction.
9. Reports to the court from its designated masters in chancery, the state's attorney, and the coroner's inquest juries.
10. Jury venires, summonses, certificates, etc.
11. Original documents used in court hearings and determinations. These documents are of particular importance because in a large number of cases the complete proceedings are not spread on court record.
12. Monthly reports of the warden of the county jail, containing a list of all prisoners in his custody, showing causes of commitment and persons by whom committed.²

VII. SHERIFF

The sheriff, by constitutional provision, has been an elected officer of Jackson County from 1819 to the present.¹ The term of his office, originally set at two years, is now four years. In 1880 it was provided, by constitutional amendment, that no person elected to the office of sheriff should be eligible to serve in that capacity for four years after the expiration of the term for which he was elected.² His bond in this county is required in the sum of $10,000 and must be approved by the county judge.³

 3. R.S.1874, p. 990. Cf. R.L.1827, p. 371. Prior to the organization of the county court, the sheriff's bond and securities were approved by the circuit court.

Memoranda of this bond are entered at large upon the records of the county court and the bond is filed in the office of the county clerk.¹ One or more deputies are appointed by the sheriff in accordance with the number allowed by rule of the circuit court. Compensation of the deputies is determined by the county board.² The sheriff is warden of the county jail and has custody and regulation of the same and of all prisoners.³ To assist him in this administration, he appoints a superintendent of the county jail for whose conduct he is responsible, and whom he may remove at pleasure.⁴

Essentially without change for over one hundred years, the principal duties of the sheriff are the following:

1. To act as conservator of the peace, with power to arrest offenders on view.
2. To attend, in person or by deputy, all courts of record (city, county, probate, circuit, and appellate courts) in his county, and to obey the orders and directions of the courts.
3. To serve, execute, and return all writs, warrants, process, orders, and decrees legally directed to him.
4. To sell real or personal property by virtue of execution or other process.
5. To send finger prints of criminals to the state bureau of criminal identification and investigation.⁵

In the course of the sheriff's many detailed duties included in these broad provisions, the following records may be kept but do not appear in Jackson County:

1. Receipts of deliveries of prisoners in changes of venue.
2. Copies of reports to the county court and circuit court.⁶
3. Reports of pawbrokers on loans and articles pawned.⁷

VIII. CORONER

The coroner's office in Jackson County has continued in existence from 1819 to the present.¹ The coroner is elected by the county electorate for a four-year term. He receives his commission from the Governor, upon the certification of the county clerk of his election, and filing of his bond and taking the oath of office.² The inquest duties of this official

 2. The office is constitutional and elective (Constitution of 1818, Art. III, sec. 11; Constitution of 1870, Art. X, sec. 8). The term, formerly two years, is now four years (second amendment, November 22, 1880, to Constitution of 1870, Art. X, sec. 8).

have changed little over a period of more than a century. The coroner acts as a conservator of the peace with powers equal to the sheriff's in this respect, and serves as a ministerial officer of the courts in the absence or disqualification of the sheriff, and performs all other duties of the latter when the office is vacant.¹

The most important function of the coroner is to hold inquests over the bodies of persons supposed to have come to their death by violence, casualty, or other undue means. Upon notification of such death, the coroner goes to the place where the body is and takes charge of the same, and summons a jury of six men of the neighborhood in which the body was found. The jury is instructed to assemble at the place where the body is to be at a stated time, and upon view of the body to inquire into the cause and manner of the death. If the inquest is continued and a vacancy occurs on the jury, the coroner is allowed to fill such vacancy.²

To the custody of the clerk of the circuit court are returned the verdict of the jury, and such recognizances as may be given the coroner by witnesses whose testimony implicates any person as the unlawful slayer of the deceased.³ In his own office, the coroner files and preserves the record of such testimony.⁴ The coroner also keeps one record which he originates, the "inquest record." This record recapitulates all the data involved in the entire inquest procedure and includes an inventory and accounting of the personal property and money of the deceased.⁵

Deputy coroners appointed by this official enable him to perform the duties of his office. The number of deputies is set by rule of the circuit court, and their compensation is determined by the county board of supervisors. The bond or securities of these assistants are taken by the coroner, and the oath to which each subscribes is filed in the county clerk's office.⁶

IX. STATE'S ATTORNEY

The functions of the office of state's attorney in Jackson County were performed by a circuit attorney from 1819 to 1827 when he was replaced by an officer "styled and called state's attorney."¹ In Jackson County, as in each of the counties of the judicial district, this officer commenced and prosecuted in courts of record all actions in which the people of the state or county were concerned.² The state's attorney was appointed by the Governor until 1835, when he became an appointee of the General Assembly. This latter provision remained effective until 1848, when the state's attorney became an elective officer of the circuit district electorate. At this time his services also were expanded to include the newly-created county court. Finally, the present Constitution made the office elective in and for each county.³ From the creation of this office in the State until the present, the state's attorney has continued to receive his commission from the Governor for the tenure of his office.¹ In 1827 his appointment was set at a four-year term, until 1835, when he was appointed by the Assembly for a two-year term. Then, in 1849, the state's attorney's office became elective by the district electorate for a four-year term, the first term, however, being only for three years and ending in 1852.² In Jackson County the state's attorney receives an annual salary of $4,500, with an additional $400 paid by the state. Statutory fee rates are allowed him for convictions on specified offenses and crimes before justices of the peace, police magistrates, county, and circuit courts. Also, rates are established for preliminary examination of defendant, for attendance at trials, and for appeals. These several fees and rates make up a county fund from which is paid his salary.³

The duties of the state's attorney are:

1. To commence and prosecute all actions, suits, indictments, and prosecutions, civil or criminal, in any court of record in his county in which the people of the state or county may be concerned.
2. To prosecute all forfeited bonds and recognizances and all actions and proceedings for the recovery of debts, revenues, moneys, fines, penalties, and forfeitures accruing to the state or his county, or to any school district in his county; also to prosecute all suits in his county against railroads or transportation companies, which may be prosecuted in the name of the people of the State of Illinois.
3. To commence and prosecute all actions and proceedings brought up by any county officer in his official capacity.
4. To defend all actions and proceedings brought against his county or against any county or state officer in his official capacity, in his county.
5. To attend the examination of all persons brought before any judge on habeas corpus when the prosecution is in his county.
6. To attend before justices of the peace and prosecute charges of felony or misdemeanor for which the offender is required to be recognized and to appear before a court of record when in his power to do so.

7. To give his opinion without fee or reward, to any county officer or justice of the peace in his county upon any question of law relating to any criminal or other matter in which the people of the state or county may be concerned.
8. To assist the attorney general whenever it may be necessary, and in cases of appeal or writ of error, from his county to the supreme court, to which it is the duty of the attorney general to attend, he shall, a reasonable time before the trial of such appeal or writ of error, furnish the attorney general with a brief, showing the nature of the case and the questions involved.
9. To pay all moneys received by him in trust, without delay, to the officer who by law is entitled to their custody.
10. To perform such other and further duties as may from time to time be enjoined upon him by law.
11. To appear in all proceedings by collectors of taxes against delinquent taxpayers for judgment to sell real estate, and to see that all the necessary preliminary steps have been legally taken to make the judgment legal and binding.¹
12. To enforce the collection of all fines, forfeitures, and penalties imposed or incurred in the courts of record in his county; and report² on the collection of these moneys to the circuit court.

In Jackson County the only records found for this office were state's attorneys' reports to circuit court, entries 287, 288.

X. SUPERVISOR OF ASSESSMENTS

The county supervisor of assessments, with the aid of the township assessors in Jackson County, is responsible for the assessment of property upon which the township, district, county, state, and other taxes are levied. Principally, these officers annually revise the assessment of property, correct the same upon complaint, and quadrennially assess real and personal property. Many statutory provisions have regulated this function in Jackson County. Early laws fixed the value of the several categories of real and personal property, leaving to the assessing officer only limited discretion.³

Property assessments in Jackson County were first made by the county treasurer, an appointee of the county commissioners' court.¹ From 1825 to 1827, when the sheriff acted as treasurer,² a county assessor was appointed by the county commissioners' court.³ In 1827 the General Assembly re-established the office of county treasurer, and the assessment function was resumed by that officer.⁴ The treasurer continued to act in this capacity until 1839 when the legislature provided for the appointment by the county commissioners' court of a county assessor.⁵ The duty of property assessment reverted to the county treasurer again in 1844,⁶ and continued to be vested in that office until 1872 when Jackson County adopted township organization and assessments were made by township assessors, elected one in each township.⁷

These officers have continued to perform this function ever since, with the exception of a period between 1875 and 1878, and two years between 1883 and 1885, when Jackson County adopted the commissioner form of government. During those years, the county treasurer acted as ex-officio assessor.⁸

Between 1853 and 1898, the assessing officers received their assessment lists from, and reported assessments to, the county clerk.⁹ In the latter year the legislature provided that the county treasurer should be ex-officio supervisor of assessments; from that date until the present, the township assessors have worked under the direction of, and reported the assessment of property to, the county treasurer acting in this ex-officio capacity. Every assessor is bonded in the sum of $500. Bond for the supervisor of assessments is $2,000 or such larger sum as the county board may determine.¹⁰

XI. BOARD OF REVIEW

An important aspect of the revenue procedure is the authority for the review of assessments on property. In Jackson County this power is exercised by the board of review. The duties of this board are essentially to equalize, review, or revise the assessment of property. Early legislation provided for appeals from assessments to the county commissioners' court. The court was empowered to review and revise assessments on real and personal property.¹

In 1849 when the county court succeeded the county commissioners' court in Jackson County, appeals were made to that body.² When the township form of government was adopted by Jackson County in 1872, the town boards composed of the township supervisor, clerk, and assessor, exercised jurisdiction over the revision of assessments in their respective towns. The duties of the board of supervisors in regard to assessments were the following:

1. To assess omitted property.
2. To review assessments upon complaint.
3. To hear and determine the application of any person assessed on property claimed to be exempt from taxation.
4. To ascertain whether the valuations in one town or district bore just relation to all the towns or districts in the county.³

In 1898 this authority was transferred to the newly-created board of review, composed of the chairman of the county board who became ex-officio chairman of the board of review, the county clerk, and one citizen appointed by the county judge.⁴ Since 1923 the board has consisted of the chairman of the county board as ex-officio chairman of the board of review, and two citizens appointed by the county judge. The members of the board select their own clerk. The two citizen members of the board are appointed alternately for a two-year term. The board may reduce or increase the entire assessment of property.

XII. COLLECTOR

Tax collections in Jackson County were made by the sheriff as ex-officio county collector from 1819 to 1872, with the exception of a brief period of four years, 1839 to 1843, when there existed a separate office of county collector filled by appointment by the county commissioners' court.² With the acceptance of the township form of government in 1872, the county treasurer became ex-officio collector of taxes.³ Under this plan, town collectors elected in each township, were required to make collection of resident property taxes and deliver their books to the county collector, who returned them to the county clerk.⁴ The county collector, in turn, was charged with the collection of the non-resident property taxes.¹ The provision for the return of the collectors' books to the county clerk was changed in 1871 when the legislature provided for the county collector to make an annual sworn statement to the county clerk, showing the total amount collected by him from each kind of tax, the amount received from each town collector, and the amount collected by himself.²

In 1917 the office of town collector was abolished in counties the size of Jackson, and the county collector became ex-officio town collector for each of the townships in his county. As town collector, the county collector is required to perform all the duties assigned to town collectors under existing statutory requirements.³ Bond in the amount determined upon by the county board is required of him in addition to that attendant upon his office as county treasurer.⁴

The collector annually prepares a delinquent property list and files it with the county clerk. He also advertises his intention of applying for judgment for sale of delinquent lands and lots and is required to attend in person or by deputy all tax sales resulting therefrom. The county clerk, in person or by deputy, is also required to attend all tax sales. At such tax sales the clerk and collector note and make entry of all tax sales and forfeitures to the state.

To recapitulate, under statutory provisions the county collector collects taxes for the state, county, and other governmental agencies; settles annually with the county board, and pays to the proper authorities the amount in his hands due them; and attends all tax sales in person or by deputy.⁵

The county collector is required by statute to keep his records as collector of taxes separate from his records as county treasurer.⁶ The records of the collector's office include duplicates of receipts issued to taxpayers, state auditor's and county clerk's certificates of the collector's settlement with them, duplicates of the collector's reports, delinquent property records, and tax sales and forfeiture records.

XIII. TREASURER

The first General Assembly created the office of county treasurer and provided that its incumbent be appointed by the county commissioners' court.¹ The office was abolished in 1825, the sheriff by statutory provision, acting as ex-officio treasurer during the following two years.² In 1827 the legislature re-established the office, providing that a treasurer be appointed annually by the county commissioners' court.³ From 1837 to the present, the treasurer has been elected by the people of the county,⁴ and is commissioned by the Governor for a four-year term.⁵ In 1880, by amendment to the Constitution of 1870, it was provided that no treasurer be eligible for re-election until four years after the expiration of his term of office.⁶ The penal sum of the treasurer's bond and his securities are determined by the county board.⁷ Upon request of the treasurer, the board designates the bank in which the public funds are to be deposited.

In the performance of his duties, the treasurer receives the county revenue, keeps custody of its funds, and disburses them in accordance with orders of the county board or specific authorization by law. He is required to keep books of accounts of all funds received and disbursed by him, to maintain a register of county orders countersigned and paid, to report annually to the county board on the financial transactions of his office,

The office was made constitutional in 1870 without change of term (Constitution of 1870, Art. X, sec. 8). Then in 1880, the term was lengthened to four years (Constitution of 1870, Art. X, sec. 8, as amended November, 1880).

and to settle his accounts with the board semi-annually.¹ The last two requirements give rise to a number of segregated records of accounts beyond strict statutory requirements. In addition, reports are made to the treasurer by other county, district, public, and semi-public authorities in the process of transacting business with him; and, finally, a large number of records arise from the requirements for collectors of taxes to settle their accounts with the treasurer.²

The treasurer acts as ex-officio treasurer of the special drainage district.³

XIV. SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

The first school official in Jackson County was the county school commissioner.¹ The principal duties of this officer, an appointee of the county commissioners' court, centered around the sale of school lands. His reports of these sales were made to the county commissioners' court and recorded by their clerk in a well-bound book kept for that purpose.² The school commissioner also reported to the commissioners' court on his other transactions in regard to the school fund.³ His office became elective in 1841.⁴ In 1845 the office of county superintendent of schools was created as an ex-officio office of the county school commissioner.⁵ For his ex-officio duties as superintendent of schools, the commissioner received additional compensation for the days actually engaged in the performance of these duties.⁶ Beginning with the year 1847, the school commissioner was elected for a two-year term.⁷ In 1865 the office of county superintendent of schools was established as an independent office, and had delegated to it the authority formerly vested in the county school commissioner.⁸

The superintendent of schools is a statutory office, now elective for a term of four years.⁹ The superintendent's office serves as the central school administrative agency for the county. One or more of the several congressional townships comprise the several school districts. Within these administrative units are elected boards of trustees who have executive and financial responsibilities which come under the supervision of the county superintendent.¹ The boards of trustees appoint their own treasurers who also act as clerks of the township (or school district) boards.²

The superintendent makes quarterly and annual reports to the county board and also reports to the state superintendent of public instruction, the state department of public health, the state fire marshal, and the state architect. His original duties are the following:

1. To sell township fund lands and issue certificates of purchase.
2. To examine the complete accounts of every township treasurer in his county and report irregularities of the township trustees.
3. To conduct a teachers' institute, hold quarterly examinations for teachers' certificates, and issue such.
4. To hold examinations for normal and university scholarships.
5. To visit the public schools in the county, observe methods of instruction, make recommendations to teachers, and advise school officers; to observe sanitary and safety conditions, and notify trustees and state authorities of unsatisfactory conditions; to inspect plans and specifications, and approve those meeting state regulations.³

A noteworthy undertaking of the superintendent of schools is the annual teachers' institute. Pioneer legislation of 1869 provided that the school directors were to allow school teachers to attend the teachers' institute in their county without the loss of time or pay.⁴ Twenty years later, the superintendent of schools was required to hold the institute annually.⁵ A fund was set up for this purpose which has continued to be made up of the fees received from applicants for teachers' certificates and from teachers' registration. The fund is paid out only on the order of the superintendent to defray the expenses of the annual institute. When the fund exceeds the annual cost, it may be paid out for special meetings of teachers.⁶

XV. SUPERINTENDENT OF HIGHWAYS

From 1819 to 1849 county commissioners' court exercised jurisdiction over roads and bridges in Jackson County.¹ The commissioners were empowered to locate new roads, to alter or vacate old roads, and to appoint in each township one free-holder to serve as supervisor of roads in that township for a term of one year.² In 1825 the county commissioners' court was ordered to divide the county into road districts and to appoint a supervisor in each district.³ The construction and maintenance of roads were effected by means of a labor tax levied on all able-bodied men between the ages of eighteen and fifty years. It was the supervisors' duty to summon these men for work when road labor was needed.⁴

From 1849 to 1872, the county court in Jackson County had the control and supervision of public roads and bridges. The substitution of this administrative body for the old county commissioners' court effected no material changes in the earlier set-up. The system of road districts was retained and the work of superintending road construction and maintenance continued to be vested in district supervisors.¹

In 1872 when Jackson County adopted township organization, the care and superintendence of roads became the responsibility of the townships. In 1849 legislation enabling the adoption of this form of county government had provided for the election in each township of a highway commissioner and as many overseers of highways as there were road districts in the county. The commissioners at their annual meeting determined what needed to be done by way of establishing new roads and repairing, altering, or vacating old roads; the overseers of highways were then required to carry out the commissioners' instructions.² With the exception of five years when Jackson County operated under the commissioner form of government this system of road control and maintenance obtained until 1913;³ in that year the office of the superintendent of highways was first established.⁴ The boards of highway commissioners which existed prior to that date have continued to function, but their powers are principally subordinated to those of the superintendent of highways.

The superintendent is appointed by the county board. The board submits a list of three to five candidates to the state department of public works and buildings, which department examines the candidates to determine the person best fitted for the office.⁵ The successful candidate holds office for six years and is remunerated in a sum fixed by the county board.

The powers and duties of the superintendent of highways come under the rules and regulations of the department of public works and buildings. However, the superintendent is subject, upon hearing, to removal by the

 3. The Constitution of 1870 had provided that in counties not under township organization, the governing board should be composed of three commissioners who should possess those powers delegated to them by law. Subsequent legislation vested supervision of highways, roads, and bridges in the board and intrusted the maintenance and superintendence of these public facilities to three highway commissioners elected in each road district for a term of three years. Jackson County had this form of government for three years between 1875 and 1878, and again for two years from 1883 to 1885 (Constitution of 1870, Art. X, sec. 6; L.1871-72, p. 679,680; L.1873-74, p. 79).

county board and is required to perform such duties as may be prescribed by the chief highway engineer of the state.¹ The superintendent exercises supervision over township, county, and state-aid roads, and bridges and culverts in his county.

His principal duties are as follows:

1. To prepare plans, specifications, and estimates for all bridges to be built by the county.
2. To supervise the construction and maintenance of county roads and bridges, and state-aid roads.
3. To inspect the highways and bridges in each town or district of his county at least once a year.
4. To advise and direct the highway commissioners in each town or district as to the best methods of repair, maintenance, and improvement of highways and bridges.
5. To approve any purchase in excess of $200 for materials, machinery, or apparatus to be used in road construction in any town or district.²

He is required to keep the following records:

1. Records of contracts, purchases, and expenditures authorized by himself, the county board, or township commissions.
2. Maps, plats, blueprints, specifications, etc., arising in his supervision of roads and bridges, or the planning of new construction.
3. Accounts of the funds handled by his office.
4. Reports from other officers or bodies touching upon the affairs of his office; copies of his own reports on the administration of his office; related papers.³

XVI, SURVEYOR

The office of county surveyor was first established in Illinois in 1821, the incumbent having been an appointee of the General Assembly.¹ In vacation, nominations were made by the county commissioners' court to the Governor.² From 1835 to 1936, the county surveyor was an elected officer of the county electorate.³ Since September 1936, he has been an appointee of the county board.⁴ His appointment is for a four-year term. Thus, in Jackson County the surveyor was first an appointee of the General Assembly; second, for little over a century he was elected; and, finally, under recent legislation, he is an appointee of the county board. He takes and subscribes to an oath which is filed in the county clerk's office.

The surveyor is required by law to make all surveys within the bounds of his county that he may be called upon to make by the county board or interested persons. Such surveys include surveys of lands of persons requesting the same, of additions or subdivisions, and marking of county lines. Few changes have been made in the original statutory requirements for the duties of this office. The surveyor may appoint one or more deputies. Any individual requesting a survey must employ his own chainmen subject to the approval of the surveyor.

The surveyor is required by law to keep a well-bound book in which to record all surveys made by him, giving such information as the names of the persons whose land is surveyed and descriptive data of the survey. This record is required to be kept by the surveyor in the recorder's office. The surveyor also preserves his field notes and retains copies of plats.¹

The surveyor's record is kept by the recorder, see entry 151; for other survey records, see entries 162-169, 383-386.

XVII. DRAINAGE COMMISSIONERS

For the purpose of aiding in public welfare and health, the constitution has delegated to the General Assembly broad power to provide laws in regard to drainage.² By statutory provision these activities are exercised by drainage commissioners in districts of Jackson County. The corporate authorities of the drainage districts have power to acquire rights of way, issue bonds, construct and maintain drains, ditches, and levees for agricultural, sanitary or mining purposes, and assess the benefited property.³

Drainage districts have been organized by land owners upon petition to the Jackson county court. When the court found in favor of the petitioners, it entered an order to that effect and appointed three commissioners to examine and survey the proposed lands. When the commissioners completed their assignment they made a final report to the court with recommendations and the copies of surveys, maps, plats, and estimates.⁴ The districts are of three kinds; regular, which is composed of property lying in a single town; union, where the lands organized lie in two towns; special, with three or more towns involved.⁵ Jackson County has five drainage districts: four union and one special.

After the report on a proposed district had been made, the court completed the organization of the district.⁶ The corporate powers of regular and union districts are vested in three commissioners appointed by town clerks. The corporate authority in special drainage districts is vested in three elected commissioners of the district.¹ In regular districts the commissioners appoint one of their number to act as secretary. The town clerk in union districts acts as the clerk of the district. The county clerk and county treasurer in cases of special drainage districts are, respectively, ex-officio clerk² and treasurer³ of each district.

The following records belong to the drainage commissioners:

1. Records of bonds issued.
2. Assessment books.
3. Petitions of owners of land to stay assessments, orders of commissioners thereupon, and other proceedings.
4. State auditor's certificates of interest due on bonds.
5. Tax lists showing pro-rata share of levy for bond interest (union and special districts only).
6. Copies of reports to county court on conditions of district and estimated expenditures; and to county treasurer on delinquent lands; maps and plats, surveys and estimates; office transaction.⁴

The first two records are required to be kept in separate books, the next three generally are known as the "Drainage Record," and the remaining records are kept desultorily.

For other drainage records, see entry 10.

XVIII. DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WELFARE

Matters relating to public assistance and welfare in the county are handled by the department of public welfare, which was established in 1937 as successor to the county commission of public welfare, and its executive appointee the county superintendent of public welfare.¹ This department consists of the superintendent of public welfare and a staff selected by him in accordance with, and subject to, the approval of the state department of public welfare.

The county board submits to the state department a list of five residents as candidates for the office of superintendent. An eligible list of these candidates is prepared by the state department by competitive examination and certified to the county board. The board in turn makes an order appointing one of the eligibles as superintendent of public welfare.²

The superintendent is charged with all the executive and administrative duties and responsibilities of the department of public welfare. He is subject to the rules and regulations of, and removal by the state agency.³

This officer has power and it is his duty:

1. To have charge and develop plans for the administration of old age assistance.
2. To investigate and study problems of assistance, correction, and general welfare within his county.
3. To cooperate with the state department of public welfare in the operation of welfare plans and policies in his county.
4. To maintain such records in the manner prescribed by the state department and file with that agency all required reports.
5. To serve as agent and executive officer of the state department of public welfare in the administration of all forms of public assistance administered by that department.⁴

All the records of the county department are subject to the inspection and supervision of the agents of this central authority.

The department of public welfare also serves as the county department for the administration of old age assistance and is subject to the rules and regulations of the state department.¹ Upon receipt of an application the department makes an investigation of the case. In the course of the investigation the department is allowed to hold hearings and compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of papers and books.²

The county department for old age assistance keeps such records and accounts as are prescribed by the state department. All applications and records in these matters are considered public records.³

All of the records of this office are kept in the old age assistance office on the second floor of the county court building.

XIX. COUNTY HOME

One phase of public assistance is administered by the county home. All county poorhouses, poor farms, and institutions for the support and care of indigents in Illinois are known as county homes.¹ County poorhouses and farms have existed in this state under statutory provisions for nearly a century. The legislation creating these county establishments for the indigent has changed little since the original enactments. The county boards of the various counties may establish a county home, and are granted the following powers:

1. To acquire by purchase, grant, gift, or devise, a suitable tract or tracts upon which to erect and maintain a county poorhouse and other necessary buildings, and for the establishment and maintenance of a farm for the employment of the poor.
2. To receive gifts and bequests to aid in the erection and maintenance of the poorhouse, or in the care of the indigents.
3. To make rules or regulations for the same.
4. To appoint a keeper of the poorhouse and all necessary agents and servants for the management and control of the poorhouse and farm, and to prescribe their compensation and duties.
5. To appoint a county physician and prescribe his compensation and duties.
6. To appoint an agent to have the general supervision and charge of all matters in relation to the care and support of the poor, and to prescribe his compensation and duties.
7. To make the necessary appropriations for the erection and maintenance of the county home.²

Records of the county home are prepared and kept by the keeper (superintendent) of the home. He is required to keep an account showing the name of each person admitted to the county poorhouse; the time of his admission and discharge; the place of his birth; and the cause of his dependency. He is also required, at the same time each year, to file with the
